The explosion of a bomb is not more sudden or unlooked for than the attack of some malignant disease which would not occur were the blood in perfect order. To impure blood is due a great variety of ills that make life a burden. Purify your blood, and you have it.

All the year round, you may rely upon Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify the blood and invigorate the system. It's not like the sarsaparillas, that are said to be good for the blood in March, April and May. The "Discovery" works equally well at all times, and in all cases of blood-taints, or humors, no matter what their name or nature.

It's the cheapest blood-purifier, sold through druggists, because you only pay for the good you get.

Your money is returned if it doesn't benefit or cure you.

Another Case Reported in New York.

Nineteen-Year-Old Girl Goes to the Hospital.

Interesting Bulletins from All the Countries Where the Dread Sickness Is Reaping Its Awful Harvest.

New York, Sept. 16.—The health bulletin this morning announces another suspected case of cholera in the city. The bulletin reads as follows: "The only suspected case of cholera in this city since last bulletin is Edward Hoppe, of 1625 Madison avenue, who died yesterday. It is under investigation."

Columbus, O., Sept. 16.—Dr. C. O. Probst, of the state board of health, returned from Chicago, where he conferred with the health boards of seven states and the railroad officials upon the cholera question. He considers the situation very grave and at once issued a call for a meeting of the Ohio board. He also notified the inspectors that have been appointed to be in readiness to begin inspection tomorrow if the word is given.

A message was received from Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Spaulding, favorably answering a request of Dr. Probst of the 12th inst. for arrangements that would give immigrants health certificates upon entering the ports.

The state board of health met at 8 o'clock last night and considered instructions to quarantine inspectors. There were present Dr. H. J. Sharp, London,; Dr. W. T. Miller, Cleveland; Dr. T. C. Hoover, Columbus; Dr. Byron Stanton, Cincinnati; and Prof. E. S. Nelson, Cleveland.

Adjutant General Pocock met with the board, and reported that he could fit out and equip thoroughly such cholera camps as might be needed. He had just sent 40 tents to Cleveland that had been asked for by Police Director Gibbons.

Health Officer Prendergrast, of Cincinnati, telegraphed for two large tents to be sent to Loveland.

The board recommended that this request be complied with.

The board decided that the quarantine regulations at the east boundary line stations on the trunk lines east and west should be put into effect at the earliest possible moment. This will not be earlier than Saturday or Sunday, as it will first be necessary to prepare quarantine regulations and put them into the hands of railway managers and the inspectors.

AT QUARANTINE.

The Normannia's Passengers Bound for the City.

Fire Island, N. Y., Sept. 16.—8 a. m.—The quarantined Normannia passengers with a few exceptions, who have gone by way of Babylon and thence by train to New York, were this morning placed on board the Cepheus by the transport Ripple. All well and the vessel sailed for New York at 9:10. The cooks and the saloon help of the Normannia who went to the Surf hotel returned on the Cepheus and will be transferred to their ship in the lower bay or be landed at the upper boarding station and transferred when the vessel comes up to discharge her cargo, which it is expected will be to-day.

The Wyoming's cabin passengers will not, therefore, be sent to Fire island till Saturday.

Fire Island, Sept. 16.—The steamer Cepheus, which left here this morning for Hoboken with the Normannia passengers, when opposite Oak Island ran aground and the life saving crew have gone to their assistance. There is no danger whatever.

One hundred passengers have gone via Babylon under military escort. They left by the Ripple at 9:15.

The tide is dead low at this moment and is just beginning to run in. The Cepeus will probably float in about two hours.

BULLETINS.

Stray Bits of News Concerning the Cholera.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 16.—It was decided at a cabinet meeting yesterday that the dominion government would not interfere with the Quebec government in enforcing quarantine restriction. The customs officers have been empowered to board all trains and boats coming from the United States and to refuse admission into Canada of any suspected case of cholera.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 16.—Over 100 houses in different parts of the city have been condemned as unsanitary by the board of health, and the owners have been notified to raze them to the ground within five days. If the buildings are not removed and the premises cleaned up at the expiration of that time the structures will be torn down and burned by the city authorities. A rigid quarantine will be established against cities infected with cholera, should the disease spread to places outside of New York.

Cincinnati, Sept. 16.—At the health office all is hurry and bustle. Officers in blue uniforms and brass buttons come and go with a hurried air and swift movement, giving the place the appearance of military headquarters in war times. Behind locked doors Mayor Mosby, Dr. Stanton, of the state health board and Dr. Prendergast, the city health officer, were in close consultation. In an interview Dr. Stanton said that all points of entry to the state are being put into condition to keep out the cholera. Ten places now have corps of men stationed at them to go through all in-coming trains and steamboats.

The points that are now being guarded: Conneaut, Bern Hill, Youngstown, East Palestine, East Liverpool, Bellaire, Belpre, Ironton, Cincinnati, Toledo, Sandusky and Cleveland.

The various quarantine stations have a medical examiner and other assistants who will stop all trains and steamers from the east and make a thorough examination of both passengers and luggage. Everything will be disinfected before it will be permitted to proceed.

Dr. Prendergast has placed officers at Dayton and Loveland, O., and Maysville, Ky., to stop all suspicious cases on westbound trains.

Camp Low, Sandy Hook, N. J., Sept. 16.—The opening of Camp Low for the reception of passengers [illegible] quarantined on Hoffman Island has been postponed until to-morrow.

Dr. Hamilton says he was forced to postpone the opening of the camp because the New Jersey authorities refused to allow the New Jersey Central railroad to run freight trains to the camp as they had promised.

This will compel the authorities to use tugs for the transmission of supplies. The camp is all in readiness for business and everything is on hand with the exception of some disinfection supplies.

They should have arrived last night. The marines commenced duty last night. The revenue cutter Grant, with Dr. Hamilton, Surgeon Croner and Capt. Smythe, is anchored near by. They will remain here until to-morrow to receive passengers. Dr. Hamilton will remain in charge of this camp for a week longer.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 16.—The city to-day is in a flurry of excitement over what seems to be a genuine case of cholera. Shortly before 7 o'clock this morning John Henry, a janitor of the Sheldon avenue school, found an unknown Italian writhing in terrible agony in a field on the outskirts of this city. The police were at once notified and the hospital ambulance called. When the vehicle arrived the Italian, evidently a laborer, was exhibiting all the symptoms of the disease. He was taken immediately to the hospital and isolated from the other patients. Health Officer Wright was notified and went to the hospital and examined the patient. Shortly after Superintendent Starkweather, of the hospital, the house physician and Health Officer Wright held a consultation. All three were interviewed, but are very reticent regarding the case and will not commit themselves.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 16.—Fearing that cholera might steal into Ontario through the traffic at Niagara Falls, Kingston, Prescott, and other places, the Ontario authorities have taken action to have all passenger trains and boats at St. Lawrence ports inspected and suspicious cases will be refused admission.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 16.—At the hospital last night it was stated that Romino Rooney, the Italian, was not suffering from cholera. The hospital authorities seem to be inclined to reticence, but it is thought Rooney was suffering from a combination of acute mania and colic.

Havre, Sept. 16.—There were three deaths from cholera yesterday in this city and 15 new cases.

Stettin, Sept. 16.—There were four deaths from cholera yesterday in this city.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 16.—The cholera epidemic is subsiding throughout Russia, more favorable reports being received from every direction. In St. Petersburg there were eight deaths from cholera and 59 persons were seized with the disease.

London, Sept. 16.—The schooner Titanic from Antwerp is detained in quarantine at Gravesend with one case of cholera on board.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 16.—The steam barge John B. Lyon, ore laden from Ashland to Chicago, arrived here yesterday morning, but could not clear until 10 hours later owing to a sick crew. The captain replied that he had five sick men aboard, whose symptoms looked like cholera and smallpox. He wanted to land the men here, but the health authorities refused his request. A local physician who was summoned to examine the men said two of them had symptoms of cholera, but he did not have time to make a thorough diagonsis. The Lyon cleared for Chicago with the sick men still on board.

TELLING THE TRUTH.

A Woman Died in New York Sept. 13 of Cholera.

New York, Sept. 16.—The death of Charlotte Beck, which occurred on the 13th inst., was today officially declared to be due to Asiatic cholera.

MORE PLAGUE SHIPS.

The Big Bohemia Reports Eleven Deaths While at Sea.

New York, Sept. 16.—Another plague ship in the port and another story of disease and death on the voyage.

Eleven more victims added to the long list of those who have died of cholera between Hamburg and New York.

This is the story of the steamship Bohemia, which reached New York last night and anchored in the lower quarantine.

Her coming had been dreaded as much as the coming of her sister ship and sister death house—the Scandia. She left Hamburg at the time when the pest was at its worst and her 681 steerage passengers gathered from the infected regions of Germany and Russia were confidently expected to bring the cholera with them.

The Bohemia sailed from Hamburg on September 1, and was due yesterday morning. On Wednesday morning, 50 miles east of Sandy Hook, she was passed by the Trave, which arrived here yesterday morning.

Notwithstanding the anxiety with which the health officers waited for her coming, she was not reported from Fire Island, which she passed at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, nor from Sandy Hook, which she reached at 9 o'clock. Half an hour later she was added to the cholera fleet, which rides in the lower bay.

Capt. Schroeder was unwilling to say much about the deaths on board until he had made his report to the health officer, but he admitted the essential facts of the misfortunes that had befallen the company.

"We have had eleven deaths on board," said the captain. "They were all of little children. There is no sickness on board at present."

"Of what did the children die?" asked the reporter.

"A diarrhoeal disease."

"Was it cholera?"

"I can't tell. The last death was five days ago. Nobody has been ill on board since then."

"How long after you left port did the first death occur?"

"About the fourth day. The children were all young. The oldest was between four and five years. They were all in the steerage. No adult passengers have died or even been sick."

Capt. Schroeder said that he was unable to give the names of the children, but they would appear in his report when the ship's surgeon would make known all the particulars of the cases.

Quarantine, Sept. 16.—Dr. Byron has visited the Bohemia. He reports that there were 11 deaths at sea on the steamer and that four cases were removed to Swinburne island this morning. He reports that those who died on board the vessel died of gastro-intestinal trouble. The names of those who were removed to Swinburne island are: Max Feingold, aged 6 years; Chage Bass, 28 years; Leo Handfeldt, 26 years; and one small child of the steerage.

The Bohemia has on 653 steerage, 10 cabin and 77 crew, all passed and found well. The ship's condition as to cleanliness is first-class. The following is the death list of the Bohemia:

Sarah Disler, aged 25, September 6; Peshe Disler, 3 years, September 6; Riwke Wessli, 25 years, September 7; Jenkel Fawodnits, one year, September 7; Marianne Radowski, 2 years, September 7; Schauce Friedman, 5 1-2 years, September 8; Schiendel Bass, 1 year, September 8; Mosche Weisbord, 8 years, September 12; Selig Lipsohn, 1 year old, September 15; Taube Mandelsohn, 3 years, September 15; Leib Mandelsohn, 8 years old, September 15.

When Dr. Jenkins came from his private office with the telegraph report of Dr. Byron's visit to the Bohemia, he said: "I am mighty glad that this is the last of the ships we expect serious trouble from."

Quarantine, Sept. 16.—It was about 5 o'clock this morning when the report regarding the Bohemia, published in a morning paper came over the wire to Quarantine, creating consternation in the ranks of the few newspaper men on watch. Dr. Jenkins went to bed at 1 o'clock and his operator slept with his ear to the telegraph instrument. Before retiring the midnight census had been received from Swinburne island and Dr. Byron went to bed, having heard nothing from the Hamburg ship. It was known that private tugs were on watch in the vicinity of the hook and news was expected, even if not through official channels. Dr. Voight, at Fire island, reported to his chief just before midnight that nothing had been seen of the ship at that point as late as 1 o'clock.

Sandy Hook was positive that Bohemia had not passed him up to that hour.

Dr. Jenkins says it is possible that she might have been spoken while in the main channel before reaching the south spit. He inclined to the belief that the steamer was spoken outside.

ANOTHER CASE.

A Nineteen-Year-Old Irish Girl Has the Cholera.

New York, Sept. 16.—Mary Connerty, a 19-year old girl, who came from Ireland six months ago, was removed to the reception hospital yesterday from the tenement, No. 692 Second avenue, suffering from what has been pronounced genuine cholera. The case was reported to the health department by Dr. C. J. Kane, No. 673 Second avenue, who was called in to attend the sick girl. Inspector Dillingham of the board of health, declared that the she got the plague.

When the girl arrived in this city she went to live with a family named Lyons, friends of hers, on the third floor of the tenement, No. 692 Second avenue. Six or seven weeks ago she got employment as a servant in Mrs. Mary L. Fenn's theatrical boarding house at No. 221 East Thirty-first street. She was in good health until Wednesday night. That night she paid a visit to the Lyons family and came home about 10 p. m. About midnight she was seized with violent pains, which were followed by vomiting and diarrhoea. Mrs. Fenn sent for a doctor who, however, failed to answer the call. After waiting a few hours Dr. Kane was notified. Meantime Mary expressed a wish to be taken to the Lyons apartments and she was removed there. Dr. Kane visited her at 9 a. m. and after an examination diagnosed her illness as cholera. The police were notified and word was sent to the bureau of contagious diseases. Dr. Roberts sent Inspector Dillingham up to the house and he too was of the opinion that it was a case of cholera. The fact was telephoned to the board of health, which was in session, and orders were issued to have the girl removed at once to the reception hospital at the foot of East Sixteenth street.

No. 692 Second avenue is a tenement in which eight families live. The house was thoroughly disinfected and the bedding on which the sick girl lay was taken away and burned. All her clothing was also burned. Employes of the health department went to Mrs. Fenn's boarding house and took away the bed in which the girl slept there and whatever clothing she had there. Everything was burned to destroy the infection. Mrs. Fenn's boarders, eight in number, are professional people. They are badly scared.

A physician has been detailed to watch the house from which the girl was removed. How she got cholera is a mystery. As far as can be learned she has not visited any persons who have recently arrived from the other side. The only place she went to was to see the Lyons family.

The health inspectors are trying to trace the origin of the disease. There was much excitement around the neighborhood when the girl was removed.

A large crowd had gathered and it took several policemen to keep the crowd back. It is believed the girl will die.

The physicians have possession of some of the girl's vomit for bacteriological examination. This is the first case of cholera reported in this city in which the patient was alive.

CANADA ACTS.

New York is Quarantined in Every Sense of the Word.

Montreal, Sept. 16.—Montreal physicians, backed by Montreal police, were last night stationed at La Colle, St. Armond, Norton Mills, Abercrombie, Hemmingford and Coteau, on the border line. Though these proclamations of the federal and provincial governments have not yet been issued declaring New York an infected port, it is virtually quarantined, so far as Montreal is concerned.

At 9 o'clock last night a joint meeting of the finance and local health and provisional boards was held at which it was decided to ask Ottawa and Quebec to immediately proclaim New York infected and the United States quarantined. In response to this came word from Ottawa that a cabinet meeting would be immediately convened and that Governor General Stanley was on his way to the capitol to preside at the meeting.

Mayor McShane and the city council announced that all the money necessary would be found to protect the city from cholera, and, pending government action, the authorities decided to act themselves, as stated. Doctors were at once sent to the border with instructions to forbid any trains entering Canada, but to admit healthy passengers after thorough inspection and disinfection of their baggage.

ON RELIGION.

Costa Rica Has Struck a New Snag.

Rodriguez Has Declared Himself Dictator and Suspended All Constitutional Rights.

New York, Sept. 16.—The Herald's cable from San Juan del Sur, Costa Rica, says: Trouble has arisen between the legislature and the executive. Among other things President Rodriguez favors religious instruction in the public schools. In this he was opposed by the majority of congress.

He in consequence dissolved congress and ordered new elections. He defended his action in a proclamation to the people. He is strongly supported by the bishop, the clergy and the lower classes. A deputation of 3,000 of his admirers called on the president a few days ago and assured him of their support.

President Rodriguez on Tuesday declared himself dictator and suspended all constitutional rights. Public feeling runs high and trouble is feared.

HOWELLS RESIGNS.

He Has Left the Cosmopolitan Office.

New York, Sept. 16.—William Dean Howells has resigned his position as editor of the Cosmopolitan, and the October number comes out without his name on the cover. Mr. Howells was in the Cosmopolitan office but three months, from the first of March until the first of June. It is said he had been unable to agree with Mr. John Brisben Walker, the proprietor. This is denied at the office of the Cosmopolitan.

"Mr. Howells," the business manager says, "had too much of his own work to attend to and could not devote enough time to the magazine. There was not the slightest disagreement between him and Mr. Walker.

Mr. Howells' editorial connection with the Cosmopolitan is the briefest on record. He was with the Atlantic 15 years and Harper's Monthly for six years. He is still at Intervale, N. H., where he spent the summer, and the result of his work during the last three months is a novel to be published shortly in the Ladies' Home Journal.

PETE WAS VERY GAME.

But He Was a Soft Mark for the St. Paul Kid.

Jimmy Kennard Knocks Out Marks in a Nine-Round Glove Contest.

Columbus, Sept. 16.—It took just nine rounds for Jimmy Kennard, the St. Paul Kid, to knock out Pete Marks in a glove contest last night before the Columbus Athletic club. Kennard treated his opponent like a soft "Mark" from the first and made no fight until the last round. Marks is a game and clever fighter, but was outclassed not only in skill but in weight, having apparently the worst of the latter by 15 pounds.

Ed Blake was made referee and instructed the men as to the club's rules.

There were only about 200 persons present.

The St. Paul Kid showed up first in the ring. He weighed 110 pounds and was in prime condition. Tom Macey and Dan Stevens, both of this city, were behind him. Marks was seconded by Billy Welch, of Buffalo, and Tom Kelly, of Columbus. Marks weighed in at 108 pounds.

The first round was short of any actual work. Marks was on the aggressive and won the entire crowd by his cleverness. He landed twice on the Kid's neck.

In the second round the entire round was spent in feinting and sparring, and the only blow struck was the upper cut Marks landed on the Kid as the latter was dodging.

In the third there was some savage fighting in which the Kid got the best of it and in a left-handed upper cut threw Marks off his feet.

So far there had been no fighting of any consequence. In the fourth Kennard played with the New York boy and offered every chance to him which he dexterously avoided.

In the fifth round Kennard landed on Mark's neck.

Kennard resumed his playful antics in the sixth round and in his display got two of Marks' right-handed stingers in the jaw.

In the seventh an exhibition of sparring was given and Kennard in a duck got a left-handed upper cut from Marks.

Marks landed once in the eighth which caught the Kid in the ear. There was little fighting until in the ninth round, when Marks pushed in on the Kid and landed twice in his stomach. The Kid pulled himself together and some savage fighting followed. Marks' blows did not appear to have any effect on Kennard. Finally the Kid landed a right-hander on Marks' nose which put him down and out. His nose was badly cut by the blow.

The men fought for $160 a side and a purse which, according to the crowd, didn't amount to much.

MRS. HARRISON TO DIE.

What Seems to be the Fate Awaiting Her.

Physicians Admit Her Case Has Gone Beyond the Aid of Medical Skill.

Loon Lake, Sept. 16.—While there are some people here who think Mrs. Harrison has a chance of recovery, the majority are inclined to the opinion that she will never leave this place alive. The president and the members of his household pretend to be encouraged at Mrs. Harrison's present condition, but it is plainly evident to their intimate friends that they have little or no hope of her complete recovery.

The physicians no longer conceal their real anxiety at the situation, and practically admit that the case has gone beyond the point where medicine or human skill can further avail. In the words of one of the physicians: "While there's life there's hope; but it is a rare exception when a person affected with consumption like Mrs. Harrison is now recovers from the disease."

DR. NORTON TO TALK.

Tiffin, O., Sept. 16.—A joint political discussion between Hon. James A. Norton, of this city, and State Senator S. A. Northway, of West Jefferson, Ashtabula county, will be held in Liberty township, Fairfield county, at a date yet to be decided upon, canism and Dr. Norton will expatiate upon the evils of the McKinley tariff and the terrors of the force bill. It is probable that someone will be slaughtered on that occasion, and no one who knows the fighting proclivities of the Seneca chieftain has any idea that it will be his gore that will be shed.

WILLIAM D. KELLY'S FUNERAL.

Sandusky, Sept. 16.—The funeral of the late William D. Kelly, at Kelley's Island, on Wednesday afternoon, was largely attended. The funeral was held under the auspices of McMeen's post, G. A. R. of Sandusky, and an impressive service was conducted. The steamer American Eagle was chartered to make a special trip to the island to carry over those from Sandusky who desired to be in attendance.

ATTENDED THE FUNERAL.

London, Sept. 16.—Minister Lincoln, Lieut. Emory and other well-known Americans as English friends attended the funeral at Folkstone to-day of the late Rear Admiral John Cumming Howell, of the United States navy, retired, who died on September 13th at the Wampach hotel, Folkestone.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The Occidental Oil company's factory on Imlay street, between Verona and Williams street, South Brooklyn, was destroyed by fire this morning. Loss $60,000. A watchman was slightly burned about the head and chest.

ADJOURNED TO MEET IN CLEVELAND.

Columbus, O., Sept. 16.—The session of the Knights and Ladies of Honor closed here yesterday with the appointment of several committees. The next session will be held in Cleveland in September, 1894.

Mrs. Louis Martin, a full-blooded Chippewa Indian, who died at her home in Allouez, Brown county, Wis., recently made a sworn statement to a priest before her death that she was 108 years old.

OHIO CONGRESSMEN.

Ohliger Nominated to Succeed John G. Warwick.

Only Four Districts Yet to be Heard From.

How the Republicans Have Fixed Up the Boundaries and How They May Get Left.

Columbus, O., Sept. 16.—The congressional conventions of this week leave but six vacancies on the Ohio congressional tickets. These occur in districts that have overwhelming majorities. The party in the minority is but little inclined to make a contest. Sufficient is known of the candidates and their districts to make a tolerably safe forecast of the Ohio delegation in the next congress.

The republicans last winter so redistricted the state as to return 15 republican congressmen and six democrats. That is, if the people in all the districts should vote this fall exactly as they did last fall that would be the political complexion of the Ohio delegation in the Fifty-third congress. The districts that appear to be republican on the vote for governor last fall are the First, Second, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first.

It should be remembered that the democrats have slightly better chances in the congressional elections than comparison of the vote of the two parties last November indicates, for the reason that there was considerable opposition to Governor Campbell in his own party, growing out of the Louis Reemelin matter in Cincinnati, and the consequent extraordinary session of the general assembly. In other words, the full strength of the party was probably not drawn out.

Now there are four of the republican districts whose republican majorities on last fall's vote must seem uncomfortably small to Chairman Dick. These are the Ninth with 1,769 plurality; the Fourteenth, with 1,692; the Sixteenth, with 1,324, and the Twenty-first, with 1,551. The democrats have one consolation, at least, in the gerrymander, and this is that the five districts that have been left them are theirs beyond a reasonable doubt. They will carry every one of them beyond a peradventure. The lowest majority that any democratic candidate has in a democratic district is that of Mr. Outhwaite—2514—and his election is regarded as certain.

The candidates in the various districts so far as nominations have been made are given below, together with their politics, the politics of their districts and their postoffice addresses.

First district—Republican, Bellamy Storer, Cincinnati; democratic, Robert Bowler, Cincinnati. Republican plurality, 3,063.

Second district—Republican, John A. Caldwell, Cincinnati; democratic, Charles T. Greeve, Cincinnati. Republican plurality, 2,696.

Third district—Republican, C. C. Donley, Heno postoffice; democratic, not yet made, but almost certain to be Congressman Houk, of Dayton. Democratic plurality, 3,439.

Fourth district—Republican, C. S. Mauk, Rockford; democrat, F. C. Layton, Wapakoneta. Democratic plurality, 6,160.

Fifth district—Republican, George S. Griffith, Columbus Grove; democratic, D. D. Donovan, Deshler. Democratic plurality, 3,072.

Sixth district—Republican, J. W. Hulick, Batavia; democratic, J. M. Pattison, Milford. Republican plurality, 3,518.

Seventh district—Republican, George W. Wilson, London; democratic, M. K. Ganz, Troy. Republican plurality, 2,309.

Eighth district—Republican, L. M. Strong, Kenton; democratic, Fremont Arford, Findlay. Republican plurality, 4,735.

Ninth district—Republican, James M. Ashley, Toledo; democratic nomination not made. Republican plurality, 1,769.

Eleventh district—Republican, C. H. Grosvenor, Athens; democratic, C. E. Peebles, Pomeroy. Republican plurality, 2,835.

Thirteenth district—Republican, L. W. Hull, Upper Sandusky; democratic, D. D. Hare, Upper Sandusky. Democratic plurality, 5,256.

Fourteenth district—Republican, E. G. Johnson, Elyria; democratic, M. D. Harter, Mansfield. Republican plurality, 1,692.

Fifteenth district—Republican, H. C. Van Voorhis, Zanesville; democratic, no nomination. Republican plurality, 2,523.

Sixteenth District—Republican, C. L. Poorman, Bellaire; democratic, A. J. Pearson, Woodsfield. Republican plurality, 1,324.

Seventeenth District—Republican, Arthur H. Walkley, Orrville; democratic, James Richards, New Philadelphia. Democratic plurality, 4,793.

Eighteenth District—Republican, Thos. R. Morgan, Alliance; democratic, Dr. George P. Ikert. Republican plurality, 2,206.

Nineteenth District—Republican, S. A. Northway, Jefferson; democratic, Dr. H. A. Tidball, Garrettsville. Republican plurality, 9,089.

Twentieth District—Republican, W. J. White, Cleveland. No democratic nomination yet. Republican plurality, 1,551.

These facts seem to indicate that while the next delegation of Ohio congressmen may stand 15 republicans and 6 democrats, it would be no very great surprise if it should turn out to be 11 republicans and 10 democrats, but the proportion is more likely to be between these two extremes.

At Orrville, yesterday, L. P. Ohliger, of Wooster, was nominated to succeed Hon. John G. Warwick, of the old Sixteenth in the present congress. The district dies at the end of the present session.

ADRIFT FOR FOUR DAYS.

Shipwrecked Men Picked Up at Sea.

Terrible Suffering of the Men Who Were Clinging to a Raft.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 16.—Three members of the British bark Hope, wrecked in a gale on August 22, were brought to this port yesterday, having been rescued from a raft off the Grand Banks, after floating four days.

Their captain, David Jenkins, the mate and four of the crew were drowned.

The vessel was turned completely over in the gale, and the crew made a raft of the lumber with which the vessel was laden.

One by one they were washed off until the boatswain, Wm. Rees, and Seamen Arthur Jolliffee and John Nichols remained.

They floated four days without food or drink and their sufferings were intense.

IT TELLS THE STORY.

Why Judge Woods Was Made a Justice.

Dudley Had to Be Protected From the Law.

A Chapter of What Mr. Harrison's Administration Has Been Guilty of Doing.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Whatever measure of ignorance Mr. Harrison may have managed to maintain during the campaign of 1888, full knowledge of the means by which his election had been secured was brought to him very quickly afterwards.

The Dudley letter, published just before the election, had revealed the secrets of the campaign. The matter was in all the newspapers and was the topic of conversation wherever men met together.

Mr. Harrison perfectly knew the character of the men who had purchased his election for him and the methods they had used. Yet, with the single exception of Dudley's case, he in no way frowned upon the men or indicated his displeasure with the methods.

On the contrary, he gave sanction to the methods by rewarding the men. He made Wanamaker postmaster-general at the command of the contributors of the corruption fund.

He rewarded Clarkson for his part in the campaign with the spoils-dispensing part in the postoffice department.

He turned Tanner loose in the pension office to make wreck of the surplus after the plan proposed by that worthy around the campaign camp-fires.

He raised no voice in protest against Quay's continuance at the head of his party's organization.

In Dudley's case alone he manifested a certain measure of sensitiveness. But the facts that have since come to light strongly suggest that his disapproval was directed against the sin of getting found out, rather than founded upon any broader considerations of public morality. The sequel to the "blocks of five" letter is one of the most humiliating incidents in our political history.

That infamous letter gave specific directions to county committee chairmen as to the methods to be employed in bribing voters and securing the delivery of their votes. It told where the money was to come from and how it was to be used. That letter was widely circulated throughout Indiana, and many copies of it were secured as evidence of Dudley's guilt. It was explicit in its terms. It left no room for doubt.

The statute which it transgressed was defective in many ways, but it precisely and specifically covered Dudley's case. It did not make it an offense to attempt to bribe voters unless the attempt could be shown to have been successful. But it did make it a penal offense to advise or counsel such attempt on the part of others, whether the attempts were made or not. This was precisely what Dudley had done; the proof of his offense was clear and convincing. It consisted of his own letter, signed by himself and sent to many persons, counselling and advising them to bribe voters in "blocks of five," telling them how to do it and promising the necessary money.

A reputable citizen of Indiana promptly swore out a warrant for Dudley's arrest, and that worthy dared not return to his home in Indiana until a year afterwards, when secured against molestation by the favor of the administration he had helped to put into power by his purchase of votes.

Meantime the matter came before Judge Woods in the United States district court of Indiana. He submitted it to the grand jury on November 14, 1888, one week after the election. He did so in a charge to the grand jury clearly setting forth the law in a fashion obviously sound, which left no room for doubt in the mind of any juror that Dudley should be indicted and brought to trial.

The grand jury, however, could consider none of these things. It was bound by the instructions of Judge Woods, and by virtue of those instructions Dudley went free.

Why Dudley was thus protected at the cost of the honor of a court it is not difficult to conjecture. The impulse was fear of what Dudley might reveal concerning the relations of men in higher positions than his own to the nefarious practices in which he had been engaged. That the protection was arranged through the law office of Mr. Harrison himself appears to be clear on the face of the facts. That the proceedings had Mr. Harrison's sanction has been shown by subsequent events.

In December, 1891, there was a vacancy upon the bench of the United States circuit court. There were honorable judges in the district court and elsewhere well deserving of promotion to the place. Mr. Harrison passed them all by to give the promotion to this man Woods, who had thus debauched his court for the protection of crime.

When it was first suggested that he might do this the suggestion was resented by honorable men in both parties as one reflecting unjustly upon the president. Yet in the face of protest from men high in the counsels of the nation and in the face of a known and emphatic public sentiment, Mr. Harrison made the shameful appointment.

No act of his administration—no act of any administration—has created a deeper disgust than this in the minds of the people. If it has not made Dudley's case the president's own, it has, at any rate, placed the president in the position of Dudley's protector. It has given the sanction of his approval to official conduct on the part of Woods which should have driven any judge guilty of it from the bench.

There was no other reason for Woods' promotion than his subserviency in this matter. He was not distinguished above other federal district judges for ability or service, and even if the president strongly disbelieved in the existence of conscious wrong in the judge's action, he was still bound to protect the circuit court bench from the presence upon it of a man so smirched in public opinion. No man who has given occasion, however innocently, to such criticism as that invited by Woods is fit for judicial place, and certainly no president properly regardful of the good name of the courts would ever have thought of selecting a man so disqualified for so conspicuous a promotion.

And the matter is made worse by the president's own relations to the accusations against Judge Woods. The president was himself the beneficiary of Dudley's offense, and less directly the beneficiary also of that silence on Dudley's part which was secured through Judge Woods' action.

AS A WARNING.

A Light Sentence Passed on Engineer Strain.

Pittsburg, Sept. 16.—Charles H. Strain, an engineer on the Pittsburg, McKeesport & Youghiogheny railroad, who was yesterday convicted of misdemeanor, was today called before the court for sentence. In imposing sentence Judge McClung said this being the first case of the kind in this court, the sentence would be more as a warning than a punishment, and imposed a fine of $100, costs of prosecution and 48 hours in jail.

On May 1, Strain was running an engine. He forgot his running orders and collided with another train, resulting in the death of Fireman E. G. Stewart.

The court ordered that Strain be acquited on the charge of murder or manslaughter.

THE MYSTERY SOLVED.

Toledoans Who Have Been Wondering

Who and What Miss Katherine Germaine Was Will Read the Following With Pleasure.

Many Toledoans have been wondering who and what Katherine Germaine, the new star in comic opera who is to make her bow to Toledo critics at Wheeler's this evening in Amorita, was. She is by no means new to musical circles. She made her reputation in oratorio and concert roles, as her voice plainly indicates. It is not the voice of some one who has been forced to the head of the company because of a fetching figure, but that of a singer who has been trained in conservatories, and who knows the art. With this training nature was kind in that she bestowed upon the prima donna an unusually attractive voice and a charming personality. Musicians will appreciate her capability by the fact that her voice, without a flaw, leaps forth from F to high C, without a flaw tremolo runs. Miss Germaine was born in Washington, in some year known only to herself and mother, but surely less than half as long ago as other stars. Her early schooling was received in Boston and this course was supplemented by a stay at Leipzig, the home and abiding place of music. She also studied at Berlin. This is her first year in opera, but that she pleases is evidenced by the fact that she has booked return engagements in all the cities she has appeared.

A new opera "Asmodeus," will be sung by her next season. It will give opportunity for splendid scenery, the story being based upon the old character of Jewish demonology, sometimes called the prince of devils and whose especial business was the destruction of marital happiness. The story goes that he loved Sara, and consequently by different devices he slew successively seven of her husbands on their bridal nights. Finally Tobias learned of an antidote for Asmodeus and drove him to Egypt by burning the heart and liver of a fish and thus secured Sara. The composer, Carl Von Wegern, is the present accomplished leader of the orchestra, who also received his musical education in Germany.

To-morrow evening Said Pasha will be given.

BRIGANDAGE RAMPANT.

Outlaws Having Things their Own Way.

Gen. Olivieri Takes a Trip to See if the Outrages Can Be Stopped.

London, Sept. 16.—Owing to the alarming increase of brigandage in Sicily, Gen. Olivieri, of the gendarmery, has left Naples on a mission from the Italian government to study the best means of assuring public safety in that island. This is the first step taken by the government in this direction since the recrudescence of crime in Sicily. The Fanfulla of Rome in an article on the operations of the brigands says that the impunity of their recent crimes, and the enormous booty they have secured without incurring any penalty whatever, has stimulated the passion for brigandage throughout Italy.

The Times also publishes a dispatch from its correspondent at Perugia, a city of Central Italy, declaring that brigandage is not limited to Sicily and the old Papal provinces. He says that cases of robbery by bands of armed men are occurring in Old Tuscany, which hitherto has been the most law-respecting part of Italy. The paper has an editorial on the subject in which it blames the laxity of the Italian executive in permitting such crimes to go unpunished. It advises tourists to make a note of the dangerous zones and to keep away from them.

The correspondent of the Times at Rome says it is an undeniable fact that brigandage is on the increase, not only in Sicily but upon the mainland. Personal security in the northern provinces to the frontiers of the old Papal states, is as unthreatened as in England. But about Viterbo, in the Campagna di Roma, 42 miles northwest of Rome, in the vicinity of Corneto, in the province of Rome, 12 miles north of Civita Vecchia, and even within 20 miles of Rome, the outlaws living in the forests blackmail the landlords round about and rob travelers. The same state of things exists between Velletri, which stands on a height bordering on the Pontine marshes, and Terracina, at the southern extremity of the marshes. The insecurity is spreading between Palestrina and Velletri.

All these places are within a comparatively short distance of Rome. It is well known that brigands live at Viterbo, an that for the past 20 years they have been existing on the proceeds of their crimes. No effort is made to suppress them.

THE DALTON GANG.

Nothing Yet Heard From Marshal Williams.

He Had a Bottle of Whisky at Last Accounts and Was Having a Good Time.

Deming, N. M., Sept. 16.—Deputy U. S. Marshal Williams, who telegraphed from here to the marshal at Paris, Texas, that he had captured the Dalton gang of train robbers, has not put in an appearance since Wednesday. He asked for money and instructions as to the disposal of his prisoners and told the manager of the telegraph office that nothing must get out regarding the capture. He drank heavily. He stayed in his room Tuesday night until after dark. He showed his landlady legal papers and a number of railway passes and said he was a United States marshal. A bottle of whisky in his room had a stopper made of two United States court subpoenaes for witnesses issued by the United States court of Paris. There was no indorsement to show that they had been executed. It is believed here that the marshal is in the mountains waiting to secure the balance of the gang; also that it is a job to throw the United States marshals off the right track of the gang.

San Francisco, Sept. 16.—A Santa Fe dispatch says that the reported capture of the Daltons is a hoax. The Southern Pacific company also received news that it was false.

A GOOD WAY TO ECONOMIZE.

And everything a woman wears,
You'll see with glad surprise,
Tho' shabby, faded, dingy, worn,
Grow fresh with Diamond Dyes.

Though not very good poetry, this verse is excellent fact, and tells the best way to economize. The thousands who wear Diamond-dyed clothes prove its truth. Try any color, black, for instance, and you cannot tell the dyed goods from new.

THE TWO GLADIATORS.

Sullivan and Corbett to Meet Once More.

A Benefit Tendered the Ex-Champion.

Base Ball Games and the Standing of the League Clubs—General Sporting Gossip.

New York, Sept. 16.—To-morrow night at Madison Square Garden will be the scene of a benefit to be tendered by James J. Corbett to the late champion. Sullivan had at first determined to decline Corbett's offer, but finally accepted.

The principal feature on the program is the four round go between the present and late champion, and Sullivan shows considerable hardihood in agreeing to the meeting, as it cannot be but a trying ordeal for him to appear before five thousand sports in even a friendly go with his vanquisher, especially as Corbett's superiority will be even more apparent in a fancy contest for points than in a slugging match such as that at New Orleans.

Sullivan was so confident of victory a month ago that he notified Arthur Lumley to go ahead and make arrangements for his triumphal ovation at Madison Square on the night of September 17. So Lumley went ahead and made the arrangements, but Corbett will give the show, and the big fellow, for the first time in his life, will play second fiddle.

The victory of J. J. Corbett over J. L. Sullivan and the effort of the Coney Island club to arrange another championship fight for their $25,000 purse has brought challenges from several heavy weights of more or less celebrity. The latest defi is given out by the Australian, Joe Goddard. He offers to fight any man in th eworld for a wager of $5,000 a side before the club offering the largest purse.

—::—::—

The next big prize fight of the year will occur at Coney Island, Monday night, September 26, between Lynch, of New York, and Griffin, of Braintree, Mass., for the 122-pound championship of America.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 16.—About 7,000 people gathered on Hampden park to see the first day's races of the Springfield Bicycle club's tournament. The one-mile invitation race in which eight of the fastest riders in the country took part, developed a great surprise, both Tyler and Windle reaching the tape before Zimmerman, who was apparently not in the best condition. The field in this even was beautifully bunched all the way to the home stretch, Tyler being slightly in the lead and never headed. Willie Windle followed scarcely a length behind, beating Arthur Zimmerman by half a length.

In the half-mile open Harvey Tyler and Zimmerman met again and the New Jersey man won with little trouble, Lumsden, of Chicago also finished ahead of Tyler. Windle captured the half-mile handicap from scratch in fine style, mowing down fifteen men on marks.

In the mile handicap no scratch man won a place owing to the large field, but George F. Taylor, who rode from the scratch with "Jersey Lightning" Zimmerman, finished fourth in 2:15 4-5, which with the time for three quarters, 1:41 1-5, broke the competition record. The two Murphy brothers, with A. L. Banker, rode an exhibition mile on the triplet safety and made new records for all distances, the mile being run in 2:14.

To-morrow's races will doubtless be attended by an even larger crowd than today, as the program includes the world's record race. To-day's summaries:

One mile, novice—T. A. Dyer, Holyoke, Mass., won; Fred Hubbard, Springfield, Mass., second; W. E. Staunton, West Springfield, Mass., third. Time, 2:38 1-2.

One mile, invitation—Harvey C. Tyler, Springfield, won; Wm. W. Windle, Millbury, Mass., second; Arthur A. Zimmerman, New York, third. Time, 2:21 4-5.

One mile, 2:30 class—W. S. Campbell, New York, won; C. Dorrage, Buffalo, second; F. N. Herman, New York, third. Time, 2:30 1-5.

One mile, 2:30 class—C. S. Thompson, New Haven, Conn., won; A. A. Olmstead, Springfield, second; C. T. Nelson, Springfield, third. Time, 2:31 3-5.

One-half mile handicap—W. W. Windle, Millbury, won (scratch); E. A. Nelson, Springfield (25 yards), second; R. S. Williamson, Holyoke (35 yards), third. Time, 1:05 2-5.

Two-mile, 5:40 class—Hugh Robson, Salem, won; J. A. Mordett, Hartford, second; A. W. Stair, Springfield, third. Time, 5:31 2-5.

One-half mile, open—A. A. Zimmerman, New York, won; A. E. Lumsden, Chicago, second; H. S. Tyler, Springfield, third. Time, 1:00.

One-half mile, 1:25 class—A. H. Davis, Greenfield, Mass., won; H. T. Wunder, second; H. B. Martin, Clinton, Mass., third. Time, 1:12 3-5.

One-mile, boys—C. J. Allen, Long Meadow, Mass., won; James A. Griffith, Springfield, second; John Harmon, Springfield, third. Time, 3:06 3-5.

One-mile, handicap—H. B. Arnold, New York (65 yards), won; E. A. Nelson, Springfield (85 yards), second; J. P. Bliss, Chicago (40 yards), third. Time of G. F. Taylor (scratch), 2:15 2-5 for the mile; 1:41 1-5 for the three-quarters, breaking both records for the competition.

One-mile, child's scholarship—T. C. Nelson, Springfield, won; J. D. Cronin, Holyoke, second. Time, 2:42.

Independence, Ia., Sept. 16.—John P. Johnson, of Minneapolis, made a quarter over the kite track yesterday in 27 2-5 seconds. He goes for all bicycle records during the next week.

—::—::—

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 16.—Twenty-five thousand people attended the races here. Nancy Hanks' attempt to lower her record of 2:07 on a regulation track, brought out the crowd. Amid a perfect ovation the start was made under favorable circumstances and on a fast track. Doble nodded for the word at the second attempt and away the little mare flew, going the full mile without trip or break and coming down the home stretch at a terrific gait. The quarter was made in 32, the half in 1:06, the three-quarters in 1:36, and the mile in 2:07 1-2. When she finished the crowd gave Doble and his game little struggler a magnificent greeting. A floral boat about nine feet long was presented to him.

A BIG TIME.

St. Louis to Entertain Thousands of Guests.

St. Louis, Sept. 16.—The traveling men of the United States will have a very strong representation in St. Louis on Saturday, October 1, when the grand T. P. A. reunion will take place. At least 3,000 men from Chicago, Terre Haute, Memphis, Peoria and other towns will be present, and invitations have been issued to all branches of the national association, the president of which, Mr. George S. McGrew, is a resident of St. Louis.

No expense will be spared in the entertainment of guests, who will be driven through the city in carriages and afforded an opportunity of witnessing the military reception to be accorded to the Veiled Prophet, who arrives in St. Louis on that day. The orator of the occasion will be Wm. C. P. Breckenridge, and speeches will also be delivered by the governors of Missouri, Illinois and other neighboring states.

CRAWLED ON THEIR KNEES

And Kissed the Hand of the Queen,

And Then England Wonders Why the Americans Laugh.

New York, Sept. 16.—A dispatch from London says: The inauguration of the new English ministry has given rise to considerable comment regarding the time honored ceremonies which mark that event.

When the new ministry went down to Osborne a couple of weeks ago there were five privy councillors. They were ushered into the presence of the queen, who was seated in a large chair.

The five councillors then ranged themselves in line before her majesty and knelt in a row—a bona fide kneeling with both knees on the floor. The one nearest the queen then kissed the royal hand, and gave way to the one next him. Until the ceremony was completed they had to remain on their knees and crawl and creep along the floor one after another up to her majesty.

Much surprise has been expressed in the British press that Americans should consider the crawling process degrading, and some of the papers have even pointed to this impressing ceremony as one of the evidences of the superiority of the monarchial over the republican form of government.

CRIMINAL STATISTICS.

Columbus, Sept. 16.—The board of state charities has prepared an interesting table of jail statistics, showing the number and classes of prisoners, cost of maintenance and so forth, for the year ending June 30, 1892.

The total number under arrest at the end of the year was 11,454. Of this number 3,535 were for felonies, 4,676 misdemeanors, and 1,334 for violation of ordinances.

Sixty-nine hundred and five were able to read and write, while 1,234 were illiterate. The total number of insane and epileptic was 941. Five hundred and forty-two were under 16 years of age.

The penitentiary received 914 of the number sentenced, while the Boys' Industrial home received 216, and the Girls' home 82. Fourteen died and 30 escaped from the institutions. The total cost for keeping the prisoners during the year was $123,283.99. For repairs to the institutions the amount expended was $3,178.15. At the end of June last the number confined in county jails was 539.

THE REPUBLICAN CLUBS

Closing Day of the Buffalo Meeting.

J. Ellen Foster Makes Her Little Speech.

A Grand Torchlight Procession to Wind Up this Interesting Meeting.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The business session of the convention of republican clubs was held this morning. The attendance of visitors was not as large as at the opening meeting yesterday and the mass meeting last night, but the delegates turned out in force, there being nearly one thousand of them on the floor when the meeting was called to order.

The first business on the program was the reading of the reports of the national officers. These were lengthy documents devoted to statistics of the growth and present condition of the league, and the best methods to be adopted in still further enlarging the field of its usefulness.

In another hall the Women's Republican Association of the United States held a meeting at the same time by special invitation of the executive committee of the league of republican clubs. This invitation was extended to the women in recognition of the work being done by them for the republican cause.

Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, president of the association, presided over the meeting and delivered the opening address. She was followed by several of the leaders from different parts of of the country, all of whom reported a most favorable condition of affairs in their respective states.

The meeting of the national league this afternoon will be devoted to the interests of the college men, who are largely represented in the convention.

A large number of campaign marching clubs have arrived during the last few days to participate in the competitive drills, which will take place late this afternoon.

Several handsome prizes, consisting of banners, medals and other campaign paraphernalia will be awarded to the winners. The convention will wind up this evening with a torchlight procession.

To-day is the busy day of the convention and no less than four separate meetings were on the program. The morning business session was supposed to open at 10 a. m., but it was nearer 11 when there was a quorum present and the president's gavel fell.

In an adjoining hall Mrs. J. Ellen Foster was presiding over a meeting of interested women and there was a fair attendance. Mrs. Foster opened the meeting with some preliminary remarks preparatory to the work the women expected to do in the campaign. She said it was an acknowledged fact that the influence of women was great and why should it not be as great in politics, in pure politics as any other pure things.

The relation of women to politics would be to purify them, to make the issues moral ones and to educate at least their sons, the voters, to vote for their country's welfare and not simply in a blind way for a party.

She said the object of the association was to encourage women to study republican doctrines and to arouse good men to action and to help the election of republican candidates. She launched into a long explanation of the advantages of republicanism to democracy and closed by urging the women of Buffalo to organize so as to aid in encouragaging the men. Many clubs, she said, were forming in the country and their membership is largely increasing. The first New York woman's state club was organized in Glens Falls last Friday.

Other speakers at the meeting were Mrs. Mary Stuart Coffin, of Michigan, who spoke of the work in that state; Mrs. Frances W. Howard, of Washington, who detailed the work of the National Women's league organization; Mrs. Leggett, of Boston; Mrs. Thomas W. Chase, Rhode Island, and Hon. John M. Thurston, of Nebraska.

TO SAIL IN THE AIR.

Turpin Has Mastered the Problem.

Sky Gondolas Can Now Be Navigated With Ease and Safety.

Paris, Sept. 16.—The Figaro devotes a page of space to an alleged definite solution of the problem of aerial steerage. Turpin, the originator of melinite, and widely known as an ingenious and practical inventor, has been giving his spare time while in prison to a solution of the aerial problem.

Turpin, with three others, was sentenced to four years' imprisonment about 15 months ago for selling to the Armstrong Gun Manufacturing company the secret of the manufacture of melinite, which the French government owned and wished to retain for itself, it being a new and powerful explosive.

Turpin was also sentenced to pay a fine at the same time and deprived of civil rights for five years. Soon after entering prison he showed an earnest desire to solve the problem of aerial navigation, and thereby hasten his liberation by giving the secret to the government.

If the Figaro's story to-day is correct Turpin has been entirely successful and an aerial vessel built on his plans could be navigated with ease and steered in any desired direction.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

William Gillette writes to his friends in Hartford that he would give all the money he has made as a playwright if he could only be cured of the mysterious illness which has made life a misery to him. He adds that it is very doubtful whether he will be able to return from France for a year.

Gen. A. W. Greely, the head of the United States Signal Corps (though not of the weather bureau, as many people still suppose), ridicules the idea of signalling the people of Mars. He regards it an unreasonable assumption to think that planet inhabited by a race at all like human beings in intelligence and civilization.

Paul B. Du Chaillu says that he has always loved the young people because they are the only readers of his books of travel who believe the tales of adventure told in them. He has many friendships with small boys, and insists on their calling him Paul. Mr. Du Chaillu is completing a novel of life in the viking age, to be published late this fall.

Judge Gregwick of the superior court of New York—may his tribe increase—last week put to an application for naturalization, an Austrian, the query: "Which would you fight for in a war between Austria and the United States?" "Austria," said the would-be citizen. "Go back there!" replied the judge, as he tore up the man's declaration.

Whether it is due to the fascinations of his music or to the romantic interest attaching to his relations with Mme. Georg Sand, it is hard to say, but Chopin seems to be the hero of the Vienna musical exhibition. The instruments and other relics of the composer have proved so attractive that the room in which they are exposed is crowded all the time.

The artist Whistler lived in Washington about 35 years ago in such poverty and seclusion that few people were aware of his existence. He was then a poorly paid draughtsman in the service of the Coast Survey and forced to practice the strictest economy to keep the lamp of life burning. His quarters were a barren attic, the walls and ceiling of which he covered with sketches of all kinds in charcoal and pencil.

M. Felix Tisserand, the new director of the Paris observatory, is a professor of astronomy and mathematics. He succeeds Admiral Mouchez. The new director was born at Nuits in 1845. After finishing his education he was attached to the Paris observatory, and in 1868 was sent to Siam for the purpose of observing there a total eclipse of the sun. He has been a member of the Academy of Science since 1878. His appointment has pleased the scientists of France.

The little house in which Benedict Arnold is said to have planned his treason has just been demolished to make room for a larger building. It stood in Market street, Philadelphia, and was over 125 years old. It was to this spot that Arnold invited Clinton's agent to be sent from New York to meet him; it was here that he lived. A mob chased him to this house once on account of some unpopular measures with which he was supposed to be identified, and from its windows certain celebrities of the city saw him hanged in effigy in 1780. Washington met Jefferson and Hamilton in this cottage in later years, separately, in an endeavor to patch up a truce between those two statesmen.

ANOTHER FAILURE.

The Provident Bank of London Shuts Up Shop.

London, Sept. 16.—Another has been added to the list of building society failures. The Provident Bank and Building Society today posted notice of suspension. The Provident society was founded 30 years ago and has a large number of small depositors. Since the stoppage of the London and general bank there has been a persistent drain on the Provident and since their run on the Birkbeck bank began the demands of the Provident's depositors have increased to such a degree as to absorb all available funds. Unlike the Birkbeck bank the Provident was unable to bear up under the strain and notice of suspension was therefore given.

The Foraker faction has again been tramped in the mud of republican politics in this state. Hon. Chas. P. So utterly unlike all previous accommodations for district conventions is the present one at Toledo, that it finds expression from the lips of every outside delegate. Heretofore conventions of a similar nature have been held in the third floor of a block in a dingy, dark room, unfit for the reception of any meeting. Contrasted with that is the airy and roomy auditorium of Memorial hall, where the present gathering is held. Toledo, for once, is receiving the thanks of outside counties for decent accommodations for a convention.—Bowling Green Sentinel.

Democratic Congressional Convention.

A meeting of the democratic congressional committee will be held in this city on Monday to fix the time for holding the convention. Bowling Green will likely be the place selected, and representation fixed at one delegate for each hundred votes cast for Gov. Campbell last November. This will give Lucas county 85 delegates, who will be selected by to-morrow's county convention.

Quilting Bee.

A comfort-tacking party was on the tapis at the Young Women's Christian Association rooms yesterday, and, not only was the day most enjoyably spent, but a very handsome comfort for the rooms was finished.

The ladies present were: Mrs. Doolittle, Mrs. McGaw, Mrs. Dickinson, Mrs. Nicholas, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Brigham, Mrs. Cochran, Mrs. Rhenis and Miss Phelps.

The Tri-State Grocer.

The initial number of the Tri-State Grocer, which is devoted to the interests of grocers, produce merchants and provision dealers, which it seeks to serve, has been received by the Bee. It is published semi-monthly and its columns will be devoted to the latest news and information, touching any subject of interest and value, concerning the grocer, their goods and their business. The bright publication will no doubt meet with a hearty welcome by the various dealers.

Wall Paper Trust Formed

Local dealers in wall paper and like merchandise, have been informed of a wall paper trust in which the principal manufacturers are interested. The public may be prepared to note an advance in the price of high grade goods as a result. The cheaper grade of goods will probably not be affected by the trust before January 1. The trust has a $25,000,000 capital to start with, and there are only two manufacturers of fine goods outside the pool.

Mr. Husted Honored.

At the convention of the street car employes of the country at Indianapolis this week, a national organization was effected under the name of the Amalgamated Association of Street Car Employes of America, and Mr. J. E. Husted, of this city, was elected president.

J. P. Riggs, of Indianapolis, was elected secretary, and the headquarters of the association will be in that city.

Mr. Husted has not yet returned from Indianapolis, but is expected this evening.

The local union is jubilant over the honor conferred on their delegate.

Non Partisan Convention.

The state convention of the non-partisan W. C. T. U. will be held at Massillon on October 4-6.

An excellent program has been prepared and a large attendance is expected.

The first evening's address will be made by Mrs. Judge Bentley, of this city, on the subject, "Temperance Not a Subject of Politics." Mrs. Bentley is a graduate of the Boston school of oratory and her ability as a public speaker is well known. Her address will doubtless be one of the best features of the convention.

Mrs. Phinney, of Cleveland, the national president, is also on the program for an address, and other noted speakers will be heard.

Important Meeting.

The meeting of the Political Equality club will be held to-morrow (Saturday) afternoon with the president, Mrs. Claude Q. Murphy, 423 Tenth street.

The meeting will be important as well as interesting, as the tickets for the lecture course, to be given under the auspices of the club this winter, will be distributed.

There will be the usual readings and a talk on Interrogating Candidates before Election.

The winter's work will also be mapped out, and every member of the club is requested to be present.

The Hall Door is Open.

The noon rest at the Y. W. C. A. rooms increases in popularity and the delicious lunch served draws many patrons.

Yesterday 45 persons took dinner and registered and a few others went through the basement doors and took dinner, but the secretary did not see them.

This idea of turning the noon rest and lunch into a mere restaurant, where people slip in simply to eat, and rush out as soon as they have finished is something the secretary wishes to guard against.

Of course there are a number of girls who have but a few minutes for lunch, but they come in the parlor for a moment, exchange a friendly word, that hardly takes a moment of their time, but gives the home-like feeling that is aimed at by the management.

So, go early and often, but through the front hall door.

Sunday Evening Lecture.

There will be a treat for temperance people, and for all others who enjoy good speaking at the First Congregational church on Sunday evening, when Mrs. Mary A. Allen, M. D., will deliver an address on the "Bequests We Leave Our Children."

Mrs. Allen will lecture under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. and it is hoped every member of every union in the city will be present.

They will be well repaid for the effort. Dr. Allen adds to her pleasing personal presence a fine musical voice, and an astonishing accumulation of facts derived from living persons which barb the darts of theories and bring the truths home to every heart. She should have a large audience.

The Free Kindergarten.

The free kindergarten is booming again under the able management of the principal, Mrs. Cunningham. Twenty-two little ones are in attendance, and the number will be greatly increased next week. The faces are nearly all new, the old scholars having entered the public schools in the front ranks as a result of the thorough kindergarten training.

Miss Gertrude Rule, the young lady who was assistant last year, has opened a kindergarten at Norwalk, under very favorable auspices.

This year, Mrs. Horan, of Ypsilanti, will take the course and assist, and Miss Cary, of Binghampton, N. Y., will also be an assistant.

The free kindergarten is an institution of which Toledo has reason to be proud.

A Terrible Time.

John J. Murphy, the popular Summit street shoe man, took the Elks by the horns last evening, or the Elks took him, and there was a terrible struggle. It goes down in history linked with the memories of the times had with the Mayor Emmick and Judge Sala initiations. The Elks turned on all the power last evening. Mr. Murphy was made to slide down a plank with a nail in it; was made to walk off a platform blindfolded into a tank of water, was pounded, rolled, kneaded, knocked, thumped and generally fixed. However, Mr. Murphy is strong and wiry, and Dr. Monroe, Byron Ritchie, Chas. Singer, M. C. Fogarty and M. C. Sullivan, the ringleaders in the assault, were completely tired out, while Mr. Murphy, whose horns haven't commenced to sprout, wasn't phased.

FULTON STREET PAVING.

An Effort to Transfer the Contract to the Warren Asphalt Company.

The council committee on streets met last evening and handled a small amount of business. Ordinances were approved to pave Nebraska avenue, from Junction avenue to Hoag street; from Hoag street to Hawley street and from Hawley street to Elizabeth street. These ordinances for paving this street have been hanging fire for some time and have had a hard time of it in the boards and committee.

A resolution was approved directing the street commissioner to repair Bancroft street, from Putnam to Fulton.

There was some discussion over the bids for paving the alley between Summit and St. Clair streets, from Madison to Monroe. A dispute arose as to the kind of pavement to be put down and the matter was laid over for one week.

There was also considerable debate over the matter of letting the contract for paving Fulton street with asphalt, from Bancroft street to Webster street. H. P. Streicher had bid lower than the Warren Scharf Asphalt Paving company, but as Mr. Streicher is a new bidder and has no asphalt plant, a number of the property owners present requested that the contract be awarded to the Warren-Scharf company. The members of the committee were not sure that this could be done legally and deferred the matter for further consideration.

The committee on plats and surveys approved several new plats of property.

BLIND BOONE

Gives His Second Concert at the Third Presbyterian Church.

The Blind Boone concert was enjoyed by a large audience at the Third Presbyterian church last evening.

Boone's performance on the piano is simply wonderful. His magnetic touch seems to animate the instrument and make it a part of himself. In one strain he expresses sorrow, another a rage of anger, then happiness, peaceful and sublime, closing with a melody that is love itself.

The rendition of the Marshfield Tornado, one of the blind artist's masterpieces, was the feature of last evening's entertainment. The piece was composed by Boone just after the disastrous tornado, which occurred at Marshfield, Mo., near Boone's home, a few years ago. Boone was impressed with the terrible affair, and this composition is the result of the inspiration.

Miss Stella May sang several plantation melodies, which were greatly appreciated. She has a clear, sweet voice.

A concert will be given at the Second Congregational church, East Toledo, this evening.

HANDSOME FLAG

Presented to Toledo Post G. A. R. by their Wives—To Go by the W. & L. E.

The beautiful flag, presented to Toledo post by the wives of the members, will be dedicated at Washington next week, and will be carried for the first time in the grand parade in that city.

The post will leave Saturday evening over the Wheeling & Lake Erie for Washington, and their headquarters will be at the head of Four and a Half street, at the junction of Louisiana and Indiana avenues.

Mr. Henry Tracy will be the standard-bearer.

The flag is the work of M. I. Wilcox & Co., and is a very handsome piece of work, suitably inscribed.

It is now in the show window of Lasalle & Koch, and attracts a great deal of attention from passers-by.

The members of the post are very proud of the beautiful present, and the ladies are overwhelmed with thanks and compliments.

A HARDWARE FAILURE.

Cray & Rood Forced to the Wall by Creditors.

Judgment Taken on Cognovit Notes Amounting to Over $24,000.

About 6 o'clock last evening Deputy Sheriff Tuel levied upon the hardware stock of Cray & Rood, at 414 and 416 Summit street, on claims aggregating $24,864.64, and took possession of the stock.

The levy was made on foreign executions issued on judgments entered on cognovit notes in common pleas court at Bowling Green.

The following are the foreign claims: George A. Cooke, $6,075.86; William Von Behren, $3,806.00; Mary P. Hallaram, guardian, $4,500; Mary P. Hallaram, $4,000; First National Bank of Rivenna, O., $4,777.88; M. J. Cooney & Co., $1,704.81.

The sheriff is still in possession, but an effort is being made to adjust pending difficulties.

Further Claims Filed.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon King & Tracy secured attachments on the following new claims, placed in their hands today:

Merchants' National bank, $10,000; Maumee rolling mills, $2,000; Merchants' and Clerks' Savings bank, $2,500; Danielson & Son, $145.

Attachments were served by the sheriff on the stock. The firm also owns considerable interests in the Fostoria Power and Improvement company, which was attached this afternoon.

LATE MARKETS.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 411,341 bu. and at five other western points 771,389 bu. On the corresponding Friday in 1891 the receipts at same points were 1,304,528, including 634,414 bu., leaving 670,114 bu. as the movement from the five other ports, compared with 771,389 bu. to-day.

Export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were, wheat, 242,673 bu., and flour to an aggregate of 680,000 bu.

English markets are unchanged for wheat and corn, with light demand.

Mr. Howard, in the Chicago Herald, has a statement of the surplus wheat recourses of this country for export. He makes our consumption for bread abut twenty millins too great—seeding bout seven millions too little. He does not deduct three pounds per bushel on the crop to bring it up to 60 pounds, say 24 million bushels. Nor does he allow for five to ten million bushels for flour used otherwise than for bread.

The cholera reports from New York about the close of the session yesterday proved to be bogus, and there has been no exciting news of any sort to-day and the markets for wheat and corn have improved a little. It certainly seems as though the increased consumption always incident to low prices, and the gradual reduction of stocks which we have noted herein, would soon have some effect on prices which are low now, abroad, as for a hundred years, it is said. That period is a little back of our close association with the markets, and we do not vouch for it.

Wheat and corn have both ruled a little better to-day, and the tone of markets is in a degree improved. Chicago telegraphs large purchases, those of December wheat and these purchases advanced the price. Corn has maintained about 1-4c over yesterday's closing.

Chicago telegraphs that Beermohm estimate of crops of the world are 44,000,000 of quarters, and the requirements 42,000,000.

Foreign markets close without change worthy of note.

In New York October wheat closed at 79c, a gain of 1-4c; December at 82 1-4c, a gain of 3-8c; September and October corn at 55 5-8c, a gain of 1-2c. October oats 38 1-4c, a gain of 1-4c.

In Chicago October wheat closed at 73 1-2c, a gain of 1-2c; December at 75 3-4c, a gain of 5-8c, September corn at 47 1-2c, a gain of 1-2c; October at 48c, a gain of 1-4c. October oats at 33 3-4c to 7-8c, a gain of 1-4c to 3-8c.

In Toledo — The speculative trading has been as light as usual and without incident of any note whatever. There has been a slight improvement in prices, but not enough to excite anybody. We close at 1-4c better prices on all the futures dealt in. On the call October sold at 75 5-8 and December at 77 3-4. On the regular board September sold and closed at 75 1-4; October at 75 1-2; December at 77 3-4 to 77 5-8, closing at 77 3-4; May at 83 to 82 3-4, closing at 83.

Cash wheat was dull compared with the business for weeks; No. 2 soft sold and closed at 75 1-4, a gain of 1-4; No. 3 soft at 67 3-4; No. 4 soft at 62c and at 64c in L. S.; rejected No. 1 at 64 3-4 to 65 1-2c; in L. S. at 67c; No. 2 at 51c; red and white No. 2 at 73c; No. 3 at 69c; No. 3 at 65c.

Corn—No. 2 at 48c; No. 3 at 47c; No. 3 yellow at 48c.

Rye—No. 3 at 50 1-2c; rejected at 45c.

Clover seed—No. 1 much done in futures. The market was easier. We quote October at $5.90; December at $6.00; January sold at $6.10; prime for cash about $5.90; No. 2 sold at from $5.50 to $5.75 at close.

NOTICE.

England to said Edward D. Moore on lot (25) twenty-five, block (24) twenty-four, Hicks Farm Addition to Toledo, Lucas County, Ohio. One made on the 3rd day of January A. D., 1891, to secure the payment of six promissory notes, each in the sum of $100, all dated January 3, 1891, and payable to said Edward D. Moore or order on the 1st day of July of the years 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896 and 1897, respectively, with interest from January 3rd, 1891, at six per cent. per annum, to be paid annually. Said defendants are required to answer or plead to said petition on or before the 21st day of November, A. D., 1892.

Sour grapes to republicans is the placating of Hill.

Touvelle and Brailey of Fulton did it for Ashley. They are old stagers and know how.

To-morrow night John L. will again put up his dukes to Corbett, but for dollars, and not for defeat this time.

Put this in your republican pipe and smoke it: Candidate Ashley can not carry the railroad vote—not even the vote of his own railroad.

Jay Gould has ousted Joy from the Wabash property and will proceed with his own methods of acquirement. In many respects Gould is preferable to Joy.

The most disappointed business men this year are the manufacturers of campaign supplies. Torches are not wanted and capes, hats and transparencies seem to be very ancient commodities. This does not seem like a presidential campaign.

The enterprising newspapers of Gotham are just now engaged in the innocent pastime of writing Cleveland's letter of acceptance. The Herald takes the lead in this simple game, and Grover doesn't seem to be in it.

It is well to understand the situation. Gov. Ashley says he shall conduct the campaign upon the same lines as in 1890. That means that he will use money without stint. The Golden Calf is set up for the people to worship.

They are still searching for Lizzie Borden's sharp axe down in Fall River and have already rumaged several hardware stores and upset the wood piles in half a dozen different counties. They are bound to convict the girl on general principles.

The national democratic committee has issued an address of congratulation upon the result in Maine, Vermont and Arkansas. And well may Mr. Harrity felicitate his fellows upon the result. Such a republican slump in September elections was never before known in presidential years.

The democratic primaries yesterday were very orderly. Enough interest was taken to insure first-class delegations in all the wards. The convention on Saturday cannot fail to make good nominations and send a delegation to the congressional convention to pick a winner in the Ninth district.

Charley Foster catches at straws like a dying man else he would find no consolation in the returns from Maine and Vermont. Our Charley is so anxious to hold on to his cabinet position that he could shout at an old graveyard and invoke the ghostly tombstones to vote for Benjamin Harrison.

George W. Julian is still a power in Indiana and his utterances upon political issues are the convictions of a courageously honest man. He opposes the re-election of Mr. Harrison and pours hot shot into the republican camp. Mr. Julian will be one of the most effective speakers the present campaign.

The Western Union seems to be getting along comfortably well in the accumulation of wealth. Its capital stock has just been increased from $10,000,000 to $100,000,000, just one more cypher added, that's all—a little matter of $90,000,000. With prudent management the plant will probably succeed in establishing itself.

Perhaps President McLeod, of the Reading, thought he had his hands full combatting public opinion and the laws of New Jersey in maintaining his coal combine and had no time to fight a strike. At any rate he surprisingly made such fair concessions that the threatened great strike of trainmen ended before it really began.

Jack Frost has been cutting up capers of early destruction in the west this week, especially in Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois. This early freak is in accordance with the predictions of the weather prophet of the Bee, Prof. Foster, who seldom fails to "tell the weather" as it will be. We are close to the frost time in Ohio, also, and may have a snap almost any night. Came close to it Thursday night.

Pere Hyacinthe's wife is in this country soliciting money to help her priestly husband in advancing his church work abroad. The marriage of this French monk in the early seventies caused a profound surprise in Catholic circles, and was the talk of the world several years. The woman he married was an American, an Ohioan, a native of Melmore, near Tiffin, in Seneca county. Her name was Mrs. Butterfield. She has never visited her old home since her foreign marriage.

FUSION IN THE WEST.

There is hope and expectation that the democrats will fuse with the populists in several western states. Such a movement carried out in full faith would destroy the last hope of republicans. Inasmuch as the democrats have no possible chance of carrying Kansas and several other western states by any effort of their own they certainly will materially assist Grover Cleveland by voting for Gen. Weaver. There is good politics in the fusion movement. It ought to be accomplished.

A ROTHSCHILD SPEAKS.

Under the big pond comes the gracious information from Baron Alfonso Rothschild that labor is entirely satisfied with with the work capital is doing, that labor is not restless and that the millennium of contentment is at hand. This knowledgeous baron further vouchsafes the information that the eight-hour movement is all talk and no substance, because the laborers want to work nine, ten, and even more hours every day.

How serenely comfortable this old shark seems to be. It is dollars to doughnuts he knows he is fabricating. If not, he is familiar with a state of affairs abroad of which we are not conversant in free America. Here in this land of protection (all for the wage earner and none for the wage payer), the eight-hour movement is most pronounced and the contentment of labor is a question of much discussion. But the baron is supposed to know all about all the conditions in Europe, as his loans are based upon probabilities. Perhaps he is right, after all. Very likely labor is entirely satisfied, and in free trade England and protective Italy and France and Germany there is no trouble. And so free trade and protection picnic together abroad, and the question which distracts political jaw smiths this side of the ocean has no effect on the other side. The baron may be right. He isn't talking about protective America.

CANDIDATE ASHLEY.

The dead lock in the republican congressional convention was broken at two o'clock Friday morning and James M. Ashley, the sacrificial lamb of 1890, was nominated.

The Bee uses the words sacrificial lamb advisedly. If ever a man was confidenced out of money and made a baboon of, it was Ashley two years ago. His money was stolen from him by the local gangsters and with it the county ticket was elected while Ashley was dumped in the ditch of defeat.

No person better than Ashley knows how true is the story of lavish use of money in his campaign and to his shame be it recorded that from the stage in Memorial hall at early dawn on Friday, when he addressed the convention in acceptance of the present nomination, he admitted that he was made a puppet of two years ago, and that on his part he purposes conducting the same kind of a campaign now that he made in 1890. This was declaration to the crowd that money will be plenty, and the statement was so understood and accepted, and the sentiment was lustily applauded by the fellows who now expect to pocket Ashley's stuff.

And this is the resurrection of Ashley—resurrected by the power of money and by the co-operation of the government building clique for the selfish purpose of knocking down the Foraker element in this community.

The nominal republican majority in the Ninth district is about 1,700. Upon this majority Ashley will pile his money. The advantage of the situation is with him at the commencement of the campaign, but the bust of boodle may encompass his defeat at the polls. The democrats should carefully canvass the situation and select a man of the people to fight and overthrow this idol of republican worship. In many respects Ashley is a vulnerable candidate. The opportunity is at hand to elect a democrat in the republican Ninth district.

ABOUT AN OLD PROPHECY.

The mere cable announcement that the Empress of Germany has presented his Majesty William II a daughter causes passing notice only, with the natural feeling of congratulation. In the royal household and in many state places abroad the expected event was awaited with anxiety. An old prophecy, four hundred years old, hangs over the House of Hohenzollern that may be fulfilled.

The Abbot of the Convent of Lehnin made several curious prophecies about the upbuilding and the overthrowing of royal houses and governments of Europe. In nearly every instance his prophecies came true, hence the suspense and anxiety in William's household.

The old Abbot compiled a book and laid it away for future reference, in which it was written that the rule of Prussia would change to a new house, and almost by the letter of prophecy the House of Hohenzollerns came into power.

The Abbot also said the German empire would be destroyed by a western usurper, and Napoleon I of destiny was the instrument of usurpation.

In the book was further written that the empire would be resurrected by another generation of the old rulers and that the emperor of the new empire would live and reign to an old age. This corresponds with King William's history.

Still another of the singular prophecies was that the old emperor would be followed by a son who would only reign a brief time and would be followed by one who would have seven sons, neither of whom would ever reign as Emperor of Germany.

This brings the Abbot's predictions down to William II. No wonder there was anxiety in the royal household, for there were already six young sons of this youthful emperor. The prophecy of seven seemed about to be fulfilled. The little princess, therefore, was more welcome than would have been another prince.

The old Abbot of Lehnin foresaw correctly, and European sovereigns are interested in the outcome of the prediction that the reign of the present branch of the Hohenzollerns will cease with the present Emperor. There are those who have watched the progress of preparation for war on all sides of Germany who are ready to believe that another clash of arms which may not long be averted, will dethrone the young ruler. Still, the autonomy of Germany is wonderful; there is strength and resolve and endurance such as the world has seldom known. Almost invincible are the Germans in battle, and it will require the combined power of several great nations to conquer, humiliate and destroy the empire which William and Bismarck and Von Moltke builded from the little kingdoms and principalities of the German states. The Emperor may be a fatalist and a believer in prophecy, but he is strengthening his own empire for offensive and defensive purposes, and is ready to take a royal hand in almost any kind of neighborly scrimmage.

COLUMBUS' BOATS.

Grand Ceremony to be Held at Barcelona.

Madrid, Sept. 16.—The boats built in imitation of those which sailed with Columbus to discover the new world are almost completed and will be handed over at Barcelona to the United States delegate in a few days.

Imposing ceremonies will mark the presentation, following which the caravels, with the Santa Maria, will proceed to Palos to participate in the festivities at Huelva.

After spending a few days there two Spanish men of war will escort the squadron to the spot where Columbus landed in the West Indies, and from there to New York city. If possible they will be brought to Chicago and anchored in the lake during the world's fair.

SOUSA'S BAND.

They Will Wake the Echoes in the Windy City.

New York, Sept. 16.—Mr. John Phillip Sousa, formerly leader of the United States Marine band at Washington, and who has been retained by a Chicago syndicate to lead an organization in that city, has secured his new corps of musicians and will start for the west either to-day or to-morrow, giving a number of concerts on the way. Early in October he will inaugurate his first series of concerts in the Chicago Auditorium, after which he will make a tour of the far west. The new band has been engaged to furnish music for the dedication ceremonies of the world's fair buildings, and also to give concerts at the fair grounds during the six months between May and October, 1893.

Committeeman—Chas. R. Swain.

The Eigth ward omitted to make choice of a central committeeman, but a member will be selected by the delegates.

The county convention will assemble at Druid hall at 10 o'clock. Candidates for recorder, commissioner, infirmary director and surveyor are to be named, and delegates selected to the congressional and judicial conventions. Chairman Colburn of the congressional committee is of the opinion that the ratio fixed for the first named gathering will be one delegate for each 10 votes cast for Hon. James E. Campbell, which necessitates the appointment of 85 delegates from Lucas, and probably the same number to the judicial convention.

There will be no difficulty in choosing a strong ticket, since many excellent names have been suggested. For recorder Mr. Fred B. Lanzenby, the Monroe street cracker and candy merchant, is being pushed, and his friends regard him as a winner. For county commissioner James A. McMichaels is suggested. He resides in Washington township, enjoys the distinction of never having been defeated, and is a popular man. Willard Van Wormer is talked of for infirmay director, for which office he made an excellent race a few years since. He is a prominent worker in labor circles, and numbers his supporters by thethousand. Ed Connolly, M. E. Williams, G. H. Bodette and other equally good democrats are mentioned for surveyor, and the ticket will command the full support of the democratic party and a great number of republicans will be named.

KEELEY LEAGUE.

Dwight, Ill., Sept. 16.—The Keeley league is the new name adopted by the bi-chloride of gold clubs. The third annual meeting will be held at Cincinnati on the second Tuesday of September, 1893. An executive committee and the following officers were elected to-day: President, S. E. Moore, Pittsburg; vice president, John Mullahey, Denver, and S. P. Hall, New York; secretary and treasurer, John M. Keeley, Pittsburg.

NO CASE.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 16.—The cases of Joe Smith and J. H. Lockhart, sheriff and deputy of Warren county, Ala., charged with larceny of $2,000 worth of diamonds from a New York drummer while in Nashville, were nolled in criminal court to-day. The defendants admitted their guilt, but said the robbery was committed in a drunken frenzy.

RESURRECTED JIM

Breaks the Deadlock and Enters the Paddock.

The Fine Italian Hand of Postmaster Brown

Deals Hamilton the Final Knock-Out Blow.

The Postmasters of Wood Coerced and Cornered.

The Influence of the Entire Postoffice Patronage Thrown to Ashley in the Supreme Moment—Indignant Protests

Herald the news with fife and drum,
Slippery Jim has captured the plum,
Though the final struggle has yet to come.
Horatio.
And the loudest tooter in all the town,
From his royal nibs, the collector, down
To the purchased heeler, is Postmaster Brown.
Horatio.

Postmaster Brown did it.

The Bee stated that he would fully two weeks ago.

James M. Ashley is the republican nominee for congress and Kent Hamilton is non est.

It was the fiercest fight that has ever been held in this neck of the woods, but the Corbett of the battle was outclassed.

Ashley does not owe his nomination to Jim Southard, to his band or to the A. P. A., which backed him first and last.

Neither does he owe it to his own popularity nor to the generalship of his lieutenants.

As the Bee has stated repeatedly, Ashley was supported by the entire federal patronage of the Sixth district.

But it is to Postmaster James M. Brown and to none else that Mr. Ashley owes his nomination.

In the final round and in the supreme moment the postmaster dealt Hamilton the knock-out blow.

The writer knows whereof he speaks when he makes this statement. It happened in this wise.

Fulton had broken and Wood was wavering about 10 o'clock. An impromptu caucus was held, after which Judge Nearing stated most emphatically to a Bee that Wood would not break away.

Half an hour later Postmaster Brown had a conference with "Doc" Thomas, postmaster at North Baltimore, and one of the delegates from Wood.

After the conference Brown crossed the hall, and in passing whispered something to Jim Ashley, jr.

Jim sprang to his feet and started for Lucas county's corner and had a hurried conversation with Jim Southard.

Be it known that the postoffice people have all through the convention fought shy of Ashley in public. Ashley seemed to think, just as Griffin did of Squire, that public recognition from the postoffice would be disastrous.

Brown marched solemnly down the hall, chewing his moustache and evidently well pleased with himself.

It was then that Wood county's wavering attitude began to assume tottering appearances.

"There is something working against Lincoln," Van Tassel, of the Wood County Tribune, said to a Bee, "but I don't know what it is. They cannot go back on Lincoln, that is certain," he added, confidently.

Never has a more loyal, faithful band followed a candidate into a convention than the Wood county delegation.

Their candidate was weak and a poor worker, and besides there were traitors in camp.

The leaven was working beautifully, and Thomas was undermining Lincoln at a rapid rate.

The crash came at midnight. Fulton had broken, so had Ottawa, and Wood was tottering.

When Wood asked permission to retire with a view of withdrawing the name of their candidate, the jig was up.

There was intense excitement during the half hour that Wood was absent.

Fulton had also gone into caucus, and a desperate effort was made by the Hamiltonians to capture a vote from Fulton.

Jim Luckey worked as if working for himself.

It was a long and anxious wait, and the great crowd of outsiders refused to budge until the final decision.

It was going to be close and everyone knew it.

Jim Ashley walked the hall back and forth, white as a ghost.

John Kumler was perspiring and restless, and the entire throng was on the tip-toe of expectation.

Wood had gone the side way to the annex, and to that point all eyes were turned.

Again and again Chairman Howard inquired if Wood was ready to report, and again and again the reply would come: "In a few minutes."

It now lacked but a few minutes of 1 o'clock, but the crowd never moved.

It was not necessary for the chairman to rap for order. The hall had grown wonderfully still and silent.

Suddenly there is a buzz and murmur from the entrance.

Lincoln, white as a sheet and seemingly dazed, entered and walked clear across the hall before he stopped to speak with anyone.

A suppressed cheer greeted the Wood county delegation as it filed into the hall and everyone jumped on a chair.

"Ashley has it by one vote."

The rumor spread like wildfire.

"Ashley 19, Hamilton 31," Judge Nearing breathlessly whispered to the Bee.

It is all up.

Suddenly there was a rush for the front entrance.

Fulton is still in caucus, and a desperate and despairing effort was made to secure that one Ashley vote for Hamilton.

Five—ten minutes passed, and the anxiety grows more intense.

Jim Southard enters, whispers something to Col. Waldorf, who picks up his overcoat and leaves the hall.

Jim Luckey is laboring with Fulton, but fruitlessly.

Fulton files in, and a way is cleared through the ranks of interested delegates and visitors down the hall to the platform.

The silence now is so dense that it can almost be felt.

"Call the roll of counties," demands the chairman.

"Fulton, 27 votes," replies Secretary Bolles.

There is a moment of silence and then comes the oft-repeated reply—

"Hamilton 13 1-2. Ashley 13 1-2."

There is a wild cheer from the Ashley men.

"Lucas county, 99 votes."

"Lucas county," crows Chairman Fisher, "Ashley, 64 7-20; Hamilton, 33 1-20—" the sentence is broken by another wild cheer.

But there is something wrong in Wood. Another caucus is being held, and it is evidently a hot one. Bob Parker is fighting loyally for Hamilton.

Judge Nearing slowly and sadly mounts a chair. "19 21 32 for Ashley, 31 22-32 for Hamilton, 3 4-32 for Griffin."

It is all up, and the Ashley men again break out in the wildest cheering.

While the ballot is being counted there is a commotion in Wood.

"Yes, I bursted the combination," Doc Thomas was saying. "I told Lincoln that I wouldn't vote for him another d—n time. I suppose he feels sore, but I don't give a d—n."

"I suppose I will lose the postoffice," he continued, "for doing it, but I guess I can stand it," and he laughed sarcastically.

"Lose the postoffice," sneered a fellow delegate, "you did it to save your job."

This was about the size of it.

The federal office holders had nominated Ashley.

Was it any wonder that Bob Parker, of Wood, indignantly protested against the recorded vote of Wood and demanded a ballot?

Was it any wonder that old-time warhorses in the party turned away and left the hall in disgust?

Secretary Bolles slowly and distinctly announced the result of the 75th and final ballot as follows:

	Ashley.	Hamilton.	Griffin.
Fulton	13 1-2	13 1-2
Lucas	64 7-20	33 1-20	1 12-20
Ottawa	15-11	14 6-11
Wood	19 21-32	31 22-32	1 21-32
Total	99 21-32	91 7-32	3 4-32

Chairman Howard declared that James M. Ashley was the nominee and the cheering began in spots.

As the chairman announced Ashley to be the nominee of the convention the protests from the Wood county delegation were drowned in the wild howls of the victorious Ashleyites led by a big delegation of Ann Arbor employes, who had been working hard all evening.

When order was finally restored a committee consisting of Messrs. Poe, Kumler and Tucker was appointed to notify Mr. Ashley of his nomination and invite him to the hall.

While the committee was out Mr. Parker of Wood county took back his kick against the vote of his delegation and moved that the nomination be made unanimous. This motion was carried, and the convention then entertained itself with cheering for Ben Harrison.

Mr. Ashley had evidently been awaiting the visit of the notification committee, for they were only absent a very short time when they returned with the nominee.

The ex-governor then made considerable of a speech on the usual republican lines and credited all the good in America to his party. He received frequent applause, but made the greatest hit when he said: "I will assure you that my campaign will be conducted with the same vigor and much on the same lines as my previous canvass and victory is now in the air."

This was notice that the bung will again be knocked out of his "barl," and the heelers went wild with enthusiasm and set up the greatest howl of the evening. The convention then adjourned.

The Story in a Nutshell.

After Fulton county broke and it became evident Wood could be held together no longer, a hurried cousultation of the leaders who favored nominating a republican was held and a deal was made. Touvelle and Brailey, of Fulton, said to Luckey, Hankey and other Hamilton leaders that if Lucas, Ottawa and Wood would give Hamilton enough votes to nominate with 20 from Fulton, the 20 would be forthcoming. Hankey and Parker then took Wood county into caucus and managed to get 31 1-2 for Hamilton. W. H. A. Read and Harry King went to Griffin and got his support in turning the Lucas county Griffin men to Hamilton. Fulton then said that they must know the vote in Lucas and Wood before they led off with 20 for Hamilton; that they wanted their votes to nominate and wouldn't go it blind. When Lucas voted, one Griffin man made a mistake and voted for Griffin when the slate was Hamilton, and a Wood county man did the same thing. However, when the balloting was over Fulton was notified that Hamilton had 34 1-2 in Lucas, 31 1-2 in Wood and 4 6-11 in Ottawa. They then retired. When out in the hall they were notified that 18 from Fulton would nominate Hamilton. Here something queer happened. The word was passed that Fulton was going to nominate Hamilton. Quick as his federal legs would carry him, Col. George Waldorf rushed to the hall, followed by Col. Joe. Bonner. They then came just inside the door. A Fulton county delegate came to the pair and held a whispered conference with Waldorf. The word was passed somehow or other, for very quickly Gen. Jim Ashley, jr., and Corporal Jim Southard put in an appearance. Then another delegate came from Fulton and talked business with Jim Ashley. The delegates in the hall anxiously awaited his coming. When he and Jim arrived at some conclusion, the delegate returned to his confederates, who gathered in a knot to hear him report and quickly decided what to do. Jim smiled an the delegates came in. Everybody knows the result—Hamilton was thrown overboard and Fulton county nominated Ashley.

Snap Shots.

The postoffice won.

Ashley's barrel is open at both ends.

What's the matter with Jim Brown?

Where was Griffin when the light went out?

Reno and Doville were on hand all the time.

It was a clearly bought victory. Will it pay?

It's money that breaks political convention deadlocks.

Doville and Baumbach were the two happiest men in the hall.

The railroad boys began sharpening their scalping knives this morning.

Kent Hamilton could not be induced to take the platform to endorse Ashley.

Lincoln had a bad attack of stage fright when he arose to withdraw his name.

Griffin's little band of faithful followers had no chance to break for Hamilton.

Jim Ashley will rue the day he made that slanderous attack on the Hamiltonians.

Jim Stafford, Tucker and Baumbach will manage Ashley's campaign, so it is said.

Wood county's delegation was a sadly dejected lot when they were forced to surrender.

"Unprincipled scoundrels" is what an Ashley lieutenant designates Hamilton's followers.

Touvelle and Brailey, of Fulton, can tell how the result was brought about, if they wanted to.

Many democrats were interested observers of the final scramble, and enjoyed the scenes with great delight.

State Auditor Poe called for cheers for Harrison and the rest of the ticket, but the response was very light.

Hamilton made a splendid, manly fight and has nothing to be sorry for except that his barrel was not the biggest.

As a result of the past week's scrimmage, Tucker has been promised the nomination for mayor next spring by the Ashleyites.

Vince Emmick did not conclude his speech of acceptance, as the dark horse vote which he received left him on the next ballot.

Dr. Lincoln, of Wood, in his speech of declination, thanked the press of Toledo for its fair treatment of himself in his candidacy.

How many of Hamiltons' friends will vote for Ashley after the course of the latter and his associates toward them during the week?

Dr. Lincoln got the platform to withdraw. He thanked everybody and went off without doing what he intended, and had to return to claim attention once more.

Candidates on the republican county ticket are happy, as they contemplate the use to which Ashley's money was put two years ago. Ashley held the bag, while the Lucas candidates are enjoying fat snaps.

SPANISH AFFAIRS.

Madrid, Sept. 16.—At a meeting of the liberal party to-day, Senor Sagasta urged a simultaneous reform in the economic situation in Spain and Cuba. He advised the budget to be fixed on a basis of 800,000,000 pesetas for revenue, and 700,000,000 pesetas for expenditures. One-half of the resultant surplus, he urged, should be applied to the payment of interest on the national debt, while the other half should be devoted to reorganizing the army.

The Boston Herald says: "I suppose Mrs. Celia Thaxter will share with her brothers in the results of the sale of the Isles of Shoals, but it will be hard if she is dethroned queen of Appledore in the little flower-bedecked cottage. No money could compensate for the loss of a situation so peculiar, which the "Shoals people" would regret so much, and which certainly no one else could fill. Mrs. Thaxter inherited from her mother, the lighthouse keeper's wife, the love of flowers which led Mrs. Laighton to make a garden of a mere nook of rock, with pots and boxes and every device to hold a little earth in which plant life might flourish. Mrs. Thaxter had the loam for her garden brought from the mainland, and her flowers, carefully guarded and tended, unite the luxuriance of the country with the splendor of color only imparted by the sea air. She rises before dawn, and, with two maids, renews and replenishes the 200 vases which decorate her apartments.

Fears for the Safety of the Thomas Parker.

She Broke Away From the Steamer Josephine.

The Steamer Neshota May Be Released—Passages Through Lakes and Rivers—General Mention

Alpena, Mich., Sept. 16.—The propeller Josephine came in here and reported the loss of her consort, the schooner Thomas Parker, which was with the Josephine's tow. The Parker parted her line in Saginaw bay, about 25 miles up from Point au Barques. The last seen of her the Parker was standing on the port tack. She had on 1,400 tons of coal and was bound for Chicago. All ports have been wired, but she has not been heard from.

The steamer Josephine has gone to the east shore of Lake Huron in search of the schooner. It is believed that the Parker will be found all right, as she was in good shape to weather the blow.

The Steamer Neshoto.

Cleveland, Sept. 16.—Capt. John W. Moore, of the firm of Moore, Barlow & Co., said yesterday that it was hoped that the Neshoto would be released without an extra heavy amount of damage. Mr. R. R. She lies three miles southwest of this port. A special dispatch received last night from Hancock, Mich., is as follows: "As the Neshoto is 30 miles from any communication nothing has been heard from her since the captain's visit yesterday. The wind is strong, but as it is from the northwest she is fairly sheltered."

DO ALL THAT YOU CAN.

"I can not do much," said a little star,
"To make this dark world bright;
My silvery beams can not pierce far
Into the gloom of night;
Yet I am a part of God's great plan,
And so I will do the best that I can."

"What can be the use?" said a fleecy cloud,
"Of these few drops that I hold?
They will hardly bend the lily, proud,
If caught in her chalice of gold;
But I, too, am part of God's great plan,
So my treasures I'll give as well as I can."

A child went merrily forth to play,
But a thought, like a silver thread,
Kept winding in and out all day
Through the happy golden head—
"Mother said: 'Darling, do all that you can,
For you are part of God's great plan.'"

She knew no more than the twinkling star,
Or the cloud with its rain-cup full,
How, why, or for what all strange things are—
She was only a child at school,
But she thought, "It is a part of God's great plan
That even I should do all that I can."

So she helped another child along
When the way was rough to his feet,
And she sang from her heart a little song
That we all thought wondrous sweet;
And her father—a weary, tol-worn man—
Said, "I too, will do the best that I can."

THE LULU'S ESCAPE.

"It's a glorious day for a sail, boys," said Uncle Jack as he strolled out on the broad veranda of the Shepard cottage after lunch. The vines were waving gracefully in the fresh southeast breeze that was now ruffling pretty Seal Harbor and in the bright sunlight a dozen yachts out in the bay showed bellying sails of dazzling whiteness.

The three boys with a hurried "excuse me, please, mamma," bolted from the table.

"Crikie, how the Lulu will go!" shouted "Blondie." "Will you take the Scotts, too, Uncle Jack?"

"Yes, if they want to go. Run and ask them," he replied; "and you, Jack, run in and ask the Muzzy if she won't go with us. Tell her she shall have the softest cushion."

Away went Jack while his uncle went to his room for his sweater and smart-looking yachting cap.

"She won't go," reported young Jack, regretfully; "she says she is too busy and that we are to get back in time to dress for dinner as there's to be company."

"Mrs. Scott and the girls will go, of course and will be down to the float in ten minutes," was Blondie's breathless announcement as he came running up.

"Come on, then," said Uncle Jack, "Sam is down in the boat already. Jump upstairs, Jack, and get your camera."

Uncle Jack and the boy had their trim little white sloop all ready for their guests when Mrs. Scott and her three daughters appeared at the float in neat yachting costumes that set off their bright sun-browned faces. The mainsail and jib were flapping in the breeze, and young Jack was forward ready to cast the yacht free from her mooring as soon as Blondie had brought off his guests in the tender. They had hardly settled themselves on the cushions of the Lulu, and the tender fastened astern before Uncle Jack put his helm to starboard, the sails filled and the little yacht began to tack out of the harbor. Soon they were outside, then beyond the island and dancing up and down on the Atlantic swell as the breeze hurried them along.

The day was glorious indeed and the little party had the jolliest of times welcoming every wave that splashed on the bow and drenched them with the spray. That was the best of the fun. Jack snapped the camera at the catboats and sloops that went bowling along with the lee rail awash, they cheered the little steam launch Pickaninny as she cut through the waves scattering salt spray as high as her smoke stack, and when the big steamer Mary Ellen passed them they all waved their handkerchiefs in glee. But that was the last time they ever saluted the Mary Ellen. Now the boys shake their fists at her.

The Mary Ellen had already made a landing at the Seal Harbor wharf when the Lulu came up the harbor with the breeze over her starboard bow. Her deck hands were busy taking off the freight she was to leave and the assistant engineer and fireman in their overalls were enjoying a little paddle about the harbor in a borrowed rowboat. As the Lulu came up alongside there seemed plenty of time to get to her moorings just beyond the wharf within the channel buoy. The passengers smiled down upon them and the girls waved back. Uncle Jack was abreast of the Mary Ellen's pilot house when he put down his helm and brought the sloop up into the wind to fetch her mooring buoy. As she was crossing the Mary Ellen to the surprise of the steamer passengers, the order was sung out from the pilot house "cast off the lines" and the bell was heard to ring "go ahead!"

The steamer began to forge ahead and the passengers sprang to their feet in a moment. Seconds seemed long in such a crisis. The big steamer bore down on the little sloop dead ahead. Half a boat length more and she would be all right, gliding on as she was with decreasing momentum.

"She's trying to run us down," cried young Jack.

"Keep cool and go to the tiller," said his uncle. He picked up the boat hook. The stern of the Lulu had just cleared the bow of the steamer but the long boom of the mainsail now directly over the stern caught on the stem of the Mary Ellen. The captain swore viciously at the yachtsmen. With a quick motion Uncle Jack pushed the boom clear and the little sloop passed to starboard. The passengers on the steamer cheered. The little party on board the Lulu looked pale and terrified.

Then there came a crash and a little scream with it seemed an echo from the bluff. The passengers saw the tender that had been towing peacefully astern squarely struck by the stem of the Mary Ellen. The side splinted and was crushed in. The oars were tossed into the water. The handsome rowboat filled with water and thrown off to starboard dragged behind the yacht at the end of the stout painter. The Mary Ellen swung round to port in the channel, the captain growling out: "teach them a lesson"—and the last her passengers saw the Lulu was being made fast at her moorings and a boat was putting out from shore to take off Uncle Jack's thoroughly frightened guests.

When Uncle Jack and the boys reached the Shepard cottage they got a hysterical welcome from the "Muzzy," trying to hug her children and praise and blame her brother, at the same time interlarding her sentences with vigorous denunciation of the Mary Ellen.

"How did it happen?" said Uncle Jack; "don't ask me I'm too mad to talk. The Mary Ellen was tied up when we started to cross her bows. I had come up into the wind and had lost steerage way as her captain must have seen, for we were abreast of her pilot house. Ten seconds more and we would have been out of the way. I believe he cast off his lines and started off maliciously just to see if he couldn't run us down. 'Teach us a lesson,' will he? I'll teach him one, the mean cuss. The company shall pay for the boat he smashed and he shall apologize before I'm done with him."

True to his word Uncle Jack got both the boat and the apology before the week was out, but it was the last sail the Muzzy would let her boys take that summer.—N. Y. Recorder.

THE DEPRAVED RUSSET SHOE.

What the Fashionable Summer Footwear Is Responsible For.

The popularity of the russet-leather shoe may be largely responsible for the much-talked of "Increase in Crime" if it continues to rise in favor and lower in price another year.

It is almost impossible for a man to put on a light leather shoe and not feel frisky. Old Cy Prime, of Swansea, in a cast-off pair of his nephew's from New York, no sooner looks down on their passe nadiness than he wants to go to the traveling circus and drink violent, colored drinks and take in the sideshows.

Stay all day round the farm and back door with those on? Not much! He could no more feed the chickens and rake up the chips in these shoes than he could eat his Sunday dinner without taking his broadcloth coat off. If he can't fetch the circus he'll go down to the station anyway and see the midnight express go by.

His poor old wife can't seem to analyze the feeling which the shoes arouse. They somehow remind her of her courting days, and she feels too shy to ask him to bring her in some cistern water. Quiet, little, old Jones, influenced by corns and dusty weather, thinks he'll get him a pair, they look so easy and much more practical for summer wear.

They are sent up to the shuttered city house, where he is spending quiet, innocent evenings and nights while his family are away. He changes for them his somewhat misshapen black boots, and—"Damme! I guess I'll take a little trip down to Nantasket this evening. A man can't be expected to stay alone forever! I like a little good company myself, occasionally. Perhaps Brown will go along, too.

Mrs. Jones doesn't like him, but he's mighty good company, and I needn't say anything about it to her. We'll have a nice little fish dinner and come home by the last boat. I haven't had a fish dinner for 22 years, by George, and I'm going to have a good one." And the russet-leather shoes twinkle off down the door-steps, to come up them later with an uncertain, un-Jones-like tread that awakens the Geundy's housekeeper, opposite, and fills her with delighted astonishment. Susan, the sober second girl, buys a marked down pair and immediately neglects her work to flirt with the cab drivers on the corner and arrange Thursday trips to Crescent Beach with girls who are "out of places."

The grocery boy can turn his toes only toward the baseball grounds and the dime museums when clad in russets; and even prim old maids straw somewhat astile from monotonous paths and evince hilarious desires to sit with their feet hanging over something or hoisted upon something, when they catch sight of their coverings. We meet the Rev. Mr. Sorgham in russet shoes and immediately remember that we once heard from his last parish that he was a little bit fly; and the Rev. Sorgham, on his part, no sooner gets into his russets than he wants an extended European tour, with two weeks in Paris. Why these comfortable, innocent articles of wearing apparel should promote frivolity no one can seem to explain but something might be worn to counteract their effect on the aged and the tame.—Boston Gazette.

ANTIPATHIES OF STRONG MEN.

Words and Sights Which Make Many a High-Spirited Soul Shudder.

A great deal has recently been said upon the discomposure of our Commander in Chief in Malta at the presence of a cat, says the London Illustrated News. This is no novelty, for some of the bravest and most distinguished men the world has ever seen have entertained a similar antipathy.

The Emperor Ferdinand would bleed at the nose if he heard a cat mew. Henry III., of France, and the Duke of Schomberg had similar weaknesses. This dislike to the gentlest and most domestic of animals is unaccountable. But there have been much stronger aversions. Erasmus, though he lived at Rotterdam, was thrown into a fever if he smelt fish. Joseph Scaliger had a perfect horror of milk. Cardan grew sick at the sight of eggs, however fresh. Uladislaus, king of Poland, was similarly affected if he saw an apple. Boyle could not listen to the sound of water running through a pipe; his house was probably unprovided with the newest improvements. La Mothe de Vayer could not endure music, though "he took the liveliest pleasure in thunder." John Rol of Alcantara would swoon if he heard the word lana (wool) pronounced, though he had no objection to the material itself.

The author of "The Turkish Spy" tells us he would rather meet a lion face to face than feel a spider crawling over him in the dark. This he humorously attributes to transmigration: "Before I came into my present body," he says, "perhaps I was a fly." This is quite as reasonable an explanation of his antipathy as can be given for any of them. Even Shakespeare, though he gives several examples of this riddle, offers no solution of it.

GOOD DOGS.

Doctor Gardner, of Sharon Springs, New York, is the owner of several dogs—Gordon and Irish setters. A little while ago four of them disappeared and were absent for six days. On Sunday they returned, not together but separately, at intervals of about ten minutes.

The dogs looked half-starved, and evidently expected to be punished for their truancy. In the evening their absence was satisfactorily explained.

One of Doctor Gardner's hired men, John Hiller, started for a pond about two miles distant, for the purpose of gathering pond lilies. As he neared the pond he came across three of the dogs, Nellie, Beauty and Brownie, in the woods. Rix was not in sight.

John presently discovered that the dogs had chased two young coons into the hollow of an old tree. Rix had forced himself so tightly into the tree that he could not release himself. The three other dogs would not desert him in his trouble, but had remained by him for six days. They had made efforts to release Rix by breaking the tree, but to no purpose. They had barked to call for help, but the neighbors who heard them paid no attention.

With the aid of a fence rail John soon released Rix from his perilous condition. The coons were dead. Rix would certainly have died had the other dogs deserted him. —Youth's Companion.

The famous story of the word "sirloin," or, more properly, "surloin," is of recent creation. A king of England—the "merry monarch," most likely—coming in hungry one day from the chase, had served up to him a savory loin of beef. So delighted was the famished king at the sight of his favorite dish that he knighted it on the spot, and is it not known as "Sir loin" even to this day?

The manner in which trials are conducted in Chinese courts would be a startling surprise to all who have not personally attended a court scene. Torture is always resorted to in order to compel the accused to declare himself guilty of the charge against him, and to such an extent is it carried that it often results in either causing the death of the deceased or else maiming him for life.

Although Joachim, the great violin player, enjoys the distinction of being called in Germany the "violin konig," his son, who was a lieutenant in an infantry regiment quartered at Frankfort, has been removed from the roll of officers at the request of his colonel, because his father came to Frankfort and took part in a concert. This, in the opinion of the colonel, was "incompatible with the dignity of the German uniform."

Col. W. A. The Australian premier, Sir George Richard Dibbs, who is making a tour through this country, is the first native-born Australian minister to visit London. While he was there, the queen knighted him. Mrs. Ayers, the wealthy New York widow, has had her portrait painted by Carolus Duran and the probabilities are that Mrs. Ayers now regrets it very much. The lady is seated on a sort of throne, covered with antique tapestry. She is robed in heavy velvet of an indescribable hue and a heavy purple mantle, bordered with Russian sable, falls from her shoulders. Velvet shoes are on her feet and the artist's love of color is further illustrated by the revealing of a bright red pair of stockings. The English papers allude to the picture as "Queen Croesus."

Advice to Mothers of Fretful Babies

828 Huron St., Toledo, O., July 17, '92. Hand Medicine Co., Gentlemen:

My baby is now three months old and has had colic all her life. We gave her all kinds of remedies without any beneficial effect. I was almost discouraged in trying anything else when a friend told me of your Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. I gave her 12 drops which acted like a charm. Now as soon as I discover she has wind colic I give her one or two doses which relieves her entirely. I want to advise all mothers who have fretful babies to use Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. I will hereafter always keep it in the house.

THE CATCH OF HIS LIFE.

John Gunckel Disappoints His Friends.

A Most Peculiar Story Takes John to Grand Rapids, Ohio, Where He Expected To Do Wonders, But Was Unwittingly Duped.

The farmers at Grand Rapids, Ohio, have been bothered for some time by continual depredations. For miles along the shore of the Maumee, corn, potatoes, pumpkins, squash, etc., have been stolen by unknown thieves. The singular part of the whole affair was that nothing growing over five feet from the water's edge was ever touched.

It was thought to have been the work of river thieves who plied along in flat boats stealing everything within easy reach. Watches were set and a most strange discovery was made. Hiram Blodgett and Wm. Walters were selected as a committee to investigate and, if possible, bring the culprits to justice.

They armed themselves, fearing a tussle, and one night about a week ago, started out on their expedition. They selected a spot in a corn field about a mile above Grand Rapids and waited. It was after midnight before they noticed anything. Their attention was first attracted by a sudden noise, the rustling of the corn, a swish and the sudden disappearance of a stalk topped with a generous supply of ears. They made for the spot immediately, but to their suprise found nothing. They were nonplussed, but, gathering themselves together, laid down once more and waited. It was not long before another noise was heard coming from the water's edge. They strained their necks, and in the bright moonlight saw an enormous fish, for those parts, lying half its length out of the water, gnawing at the bottom of another corn stalk. They watched with bated breath. The fish finally severed the stalk, and, with a sudden flop of his tail, disappeared with the whole thing into the river, corn and all.

The operation was repeated again and again by this or other fish of the same kind and size. To say that the farmers were astonished would be giving no idea of their feelings. To top it off, three fish with black backs and white bellies, a good deal on the order of bass, only larger, flopped out on the shore, wiggled along on their sides until they could reach some crooked-necked squash growing about four feet from the bank. These they grabbed, and with them wiggled back into the water and disappeared. The investigators' eyes were bulging out like a crab's. They pinched themselves to see if they were awake, found that they were, and then wrapped in deep meditation wended their way back to the village. They disliked to tell the townspeople for fear that they would not credit the story. However, Blodgett nerved himself up and related the tale, which was scoffed at, as he had expected. He was so earnest in his protestations, however, that it was finally believed, and people said something must be done.

The town council held a meeting and decided to send for John Gunckel, of Toledo. If any man could clean out those fish he could. Accordingly John was notified. He agreed to do the job, and proceeded to prepare his tackle. Extra strong rods, lines and hooks were secured, and with a great amount of paraphernalia, partially to awe the Grand Rapids people and partially for use, John started out Wednesday last. He was met at the depot by half of the town, was cheered, introduced as "the Sweet Singer of Oberlin," "the Champion Fish Liar," and other titles, was hustled into a carriage and taken to the hotel, where the mayor, members of the council and town officials dined him. There was a goodly crowd waiting for John at 3 o'clock the following morning, the hour set for his start for the river.

Well, to make a long story short, John got there. He fished and fished, spit on his bait, repeated all his lucky verses, changed spots, whistled, applied all his charms, and swore, while the townspeople watched and watched and marveled and marveled, but nary a bite could John get. Finally John turned to leave the spot, and stumbled over Blodgett and Walters' lunch basket and 18 empty whisky bottles, that they had taken along full to keep off the chill during their watch.

It was a good joke on Gunckel, inasmuch as after hearing the stories bearing on the size of the fish, he had told friends here that he was going to make the catch of his life, and told them also that he would telegraph them so that they could send messenger boys with baskets to the depot to meet him on his return Thursday night, when he would divide the catch.

The telegrams were never received here, and now John's friends know the reason.

CAMPAIGN OF CASH.

Republicans Will Drop the Tariff Question.

They will Invade the South with Barrels of Money and Try and Buy Votes.

New York, Sept. 16.—The news from Maine has produced something clearly resembling a panic among the republican leaders here. While they did not expect any great increase over their plurality in 1888, they certainly did not expect any substantial decrease, and the remarkable falling off, following so soon after the falling off in Vermont and of nearly the same percentage, disturbs them very much. Senator Hiscock and Henry C. Payne, of Wisconsin, who are here, frankly admit that the results in Maine and Vermont are significant of what they call apathy among republicans; but they console their brethren with the saying that the republican voters will have been stirred up by November and will come out and vote.

Most of the republican leaders who are in the city, including Senator Hiscock, Mr. Payne and Secretary John W. Foster (who has returned from Washington), called upon Mr. Carter at the republican national headquarters and discussed the situation fully.

It was agreed by all that the hardest kind of work must be put in at once if Harrison is going to be elected. The first question discussed was "In view of what has happened in Maine and Vermont, where the campaigns were made on the tariff issue, and in view of the apparent reconciliation between Cleveland and Hill, what is our chance of carrying New York?"

"If we cannot carry New York, what must be done to elect Harrison?" was the next question considered. The electoral vote of each state was scanned and several tables of figures were produced.

Secretary Foster, Mr. Carter and Mr. Clarkson, stimulated by Chris Magee's report about Alabama and by General Harrison's desires, advocated an energetic southern campaign, and their contention carried the day. Henceforth every effort will be made to carry southern states—especially Alabama, West Virginia, North Carolina and Virginia.

When General Mahone's representatives came here, two weeks ago, and asked for "boodle," saying that they could carry Virginia for Harrison thereby, Mr. Carter treated them coldly, and they went back as poor as they came. Now they stand a good chance of getting a fine "wad."

In all the southern states every encouragement will be given to the people's party and they will be incited to make all the noise they can about intimidation. This is expected to have a great reflex action upon the northern voters. If excitement enough can be created an attempt will be made to "fire the northern heart," and wave the "bloody shirt" once more, so that the tariff question may be obscured and the old post-bellum issues raised again.

As a southern campaign will be preeminently a campaign of money, Treasurer Bliss has been ordered to go to work at once collecting from the protected industries, and the Pennsylvania republicans will be called upon to "give up" as much as in 1888.

GOING DOWN THE HILL.

Old Age Creeping on Shows Itself in Lack-Lustre Eyes and Trembling Hands—Many Who Are Old in Years are Vigorous and Healthy—How Such a Condition may be Encompassed by All.

How many elderly men and women we see who plainly show they are "going down the hill." The trembling hand, the uncertain step, the lack of brightness in the eye, the shrunken features, all indicate that life is not at high tide, that the strength and vital forces are not what they were, and in fact, that they are going down the hill. This, of course, is to be expected, for when one reaches later years, physical troubles are sure to come, but how many elderly people we see are healthy, happy and comparatively vigorous. They always seem cheerful, bright, contented. Why should not all be equally fortunate? It certainly is possible. Every elderly man and woman needs to gently assist nature, all the while needs to take some pure stimulant regularly. Every doctor in the land admits this, and its common sense must be manifest to all. It should not be understood, however, that any ordinary stimulant would be recommended. It must be something pure, powerful, health-giving and strength-imparting. Such a stimulant can be found only in Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It is the only medicinal whiskey in the market. Its wonderful popularity is due entirely to its power and what it has accomplished. Any elderly man or woman through its use may certainly preserve the health, and may reasonably expect to prolong the life. Do not be induced, however, to try any inferior article or any which the druggist or grocer may seek to put in its place. There is nothing which can accomplish the same object.

GREAT POKER PLAYING.

Games Among Pacific Slope Millionaires—Ralston's Pair of Tens.

A recently reported poker scandal, involving members of San Francisco's swell Pacific Union club, recalls an incident of the notorious Sarah Althea Hill-Sharon divorce trial.

The late Judge Terry, who was killed by Justice Field's body guard, Nagle, was Miss Hill's attorney in that case, and during the trial endeavored to have produced in court, in evidence of Senator Sharon's maintenance of the plaintiff, the millionaire's check stubs. The effort failed, chiefly because of the showing made by the defendant that the checks would throw very little light on the subject. This was afterward explained by Gen. Barnes, Sharon's attorney. He said that nine-tenths of the private checks drawn by Sharon were payable to the order of "Cash," and that neither checks nor stubs indicated the age, sex, or social condition of "Cash." Senator Sharon's private checks, his attorney said, though great in number and amounts, were nearly all in settlement of poker accounts. Not that Sharon lost at the great American game. He won.

His total winnings in the Pacific club game were said to have been more than a million dollars. There was a regular clearing house proceeding after each game, each player settling with the others by checks, and so it might happen that Sharon might draw half a dozen checks after a game in which he won. He played a great game of poker—great in kind and size—but his great wealth gave him no advantage, for his usual antagonists were multi-millionaires—Banker Ralston, Senators Jones and Stewart, of Nevada; Flood, of the Bonanza firm, and that set.

In the story of the recent Pacific scandal it was recalled that Ralston won over $200,000 one night on a pair of tens. The exact story of that game was told by Gen. Barnes after the incident referred to in the Hill-Sharon trial. They were playing jack pots, and Sharon opened. Ralston and two or three others stayed. There was some light dipping of one or two hundred several times around, when Ralston strengthened his play and began raising by thousands. Sharon and Ralston soon had the play to themselves, and it was not long before there was close to $150,000 in the pot. Then Sharon met a raise with a $50,000 counter. Ralston studied only a moment, and then came back with a $100,000 raise. Sharon did not take long to decide his play. "I quit, Bill," he said, and shuffled his hand in the deck.

Ralston was so delighted over having made his bold-playing bank partner lay down that he spread his hand, disclosing a pair of tens.

Sharon never told what he held in that hand until Ralston's death. It was a pair of jacks.

HER LEAP-YEAR PRIVILEGE.

She Asked Him What He Thought and He Told Her Frankly, and Then She Turned Him Down.

She (with sweet timidity)—Suppose we sit this dance out? I do so long to ask your opinion about something, but I'm afraid you might think me strange, unwomanly—

He (with fluttering tone)—Oh, no, indeed! Whatever topic you might choose could only be delightful to me.

She—You're very kind, I'm sure (looking intently at her fan). Well, now, let us suppose a case. There is a young lady, we will say, of about my age and social position, with—ah—quite a nice little fortune of her own. She (in a very low voice)—she lov—likes—a young man placed somewhat—as—you are (glancing at him with a tender smile)—not wealthy, but talented and attractive, and a very lovely fellow. She (hesitatingly)—has an idea—that is, she thinks—hopes—perhaps she believes—that he is—I would say, returns her regards. Now (very earnestly) would you think it right of this young lady to—let her feelings be known? And, fearing that her wealth stood between—to—to—in fact, take advantage—of leap-year privileges and (blushing furiously) ask the gentleman—to marry her?

——very——

He (with enthusiasm)—Right? Decidedly right! Nobly, gloriously right!

She (gravely)—Are you sure you wouldn't despise her—that you would not look on her as——

He (impetuously)—I would not look on her as anything. Oh, Miss Ethel, speak! Tell me—tell me—

She (with gentle firmness)—No, I will not tell you her name. I will tell you nothing further except that she is a girl whom I have always disliked, and whose conduct in proposing to her bashful admirer I consider shocking. I thought you too, whose ideal of woman is so high, would certainly share my opinion. I am truly sorry to find—but no matter. How dreadful a dance is when you sit it out!—Madeline B. Bridget in Judge.

An active, but not very robust New York city boy was sent by his parents away up in the north woods a few days ago for the avowed purpose of building up his health. He was cautioned by his father and by the family doctor to keep warm at night, the avoidance of chills being especially desirable in his case. The other day a letter came from the boy. He told his parents that he was "feeling well, eating like a horse and having a bully time." He also added: "And I keep as warm as toast nights. The other night I went to bed with all my clothes on. I wore two shirts, three pairs of trousers, two coats, my shoes and overshoes, and a cap."

W. T. Stead, the former editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, has on foot an enterprise for the translation of the Scriptures into the language of the ordinary man and woman of our time. He has 18 translators at work on the New Testament, divided into groups of three or four, and he expects to publish the Gospels and Acts this year.

THE WANDERING JEW.

Supposed to Have Originated in Constantinople—"Last Seen" in 1774.

The legend of the wandering Jew, of which everyone has heard, but of which most persons know so little, is not found either in the apocryphal evangelists or in the Latin fathers of the church. According to the best authorities, it originated at Constantinople. There are two versions—the oriental, in which the Jew is called Carthaphilus, and that of Europe, in which he is called Ahasuerus. In the eastern version he is represented as a porter of Pontius Pilate; in the western as a cobbler, living on the slope of Mount Calvary, by whose door Christ passed bearing his cross to the place of crucifixion. The oriental legend attributes to him a wife and five children, details omitted in that of the occident. The offense committed was the same in both cases, a brutal refusal to permit the Savior to enter into the residence of the porter or cobbler—a favor asked by himself of the Roman soldiers who were guarding him—accompanied with the suggestion that he had better walk on. With the greatest gentleness of manner, according to the legend, Christ informed the inhuman Jew that as a punishment of his unkindness it would be his fate to walk on till the day of judgment, a sentence he has since been and is believed by many to be still expiating. According to some authorities he started on his travels within an hour. Others assert that he was given till the following day to bid farewell to his wife and children and arrange his scanty baggage.

No route appears to have been indicated for the land as presenting the fewer obstacles, this author, in the introduction to his work, "The Wandering Jew," representing him crossing Berings straits accompanied by his wife. This is believed to be the only appearance of this lady in literature. In the thirteenth century a knowledge of the wanderer began to be diffused by means of the bards and popular ballads among the common people of Europe, but it was only some 200 of 300 years later that the extraordinary tale of his sufferings became universally known, and his person was made familiar to all by the accounts of those who had seen and conversed with him. No one appears to have met him until late in the sixteenth century, but after that day he was often seen by persons of rank and education in England, Scotland, France, Italy, Hungary, Sweden, Persia, Denmark and other countries. In 1575 two ambassadors at the court of the Spanish monarch met him at Madrid. In 1859 he was seen in Vienna, and in 1601 at Lubeck. In 1616 many persons saw and talked with him in Livonia, Gracovia and at Moscow. The German cities were particularly favored with his flying visits, for he is heard of at Rostock, Weimar, Dantzig and Konigsberg, at each of which places he was treated with all the hospitality the brief time at his disposal permitted.

His positively last appearance was at Brussels in 1774. He would probably have passed by this city with his usual haste had not the burgesses, attracted by the great venerability of his appearance, asked him to stop a moment. He at first replied that he could not stop, but, being urged, paused briefly. Being invited into an inn to partake of a pot of Flemish beer he consented to drink the beer, but positively refused to sit down. However, he delayed long enough to tell the entire history of his sin and its 1,800 years of expiation. From his personal explanation it appeared that he crossed seas, rivers, rivulets, deserts, mountains, hills, valleys and plains with the same facility. He passed through fire and water without harm. He had passed among warring hosts in Europe and Asia without deviation from his course, and witnessed many deaths in America and Africa. He had neither house nor land, nor any sort of personal property, and his only financial resources were 5 cents, which, when spent, were constantly renewed in his pocket. Many consider the wandering Jew to be typical of the people of which he is a representative, compelled to wander without pause or rest in foreign lands, always, nevertheless, with something in the purse symbolized by the 5 cents replaced as fast as expended in the pocket of the eternal wanderer. Recent events in Russia have given new meaning and a wider suggestiveness to the legend, which bids fair to last as long as there shall remain a vestige of Christian literature.

CHOLERA SUPERSTITIONS.

Orientals Adopt Novel Methods for Warding Off the Epidemic.

Persians and Turks are almost scared to death at the approach of cholera, and resort to extraordinary devices in the hope of warding off the dread epidemic. Thus in Persia the natives weep, wail and gnash their teeth, and in Turkey incessant prayers go up to the prophet, imploring him to preserve his faithful followers from the terrible scourge.

A strange ceremony was seen in Meshed the other day, says the New York Herald. A horse, covered with a tiger skin, was led out into the principal street, and all the Persians in the city gathered round him. From the tiger skin hung countless amulets, and the animal was otherwise curiously caparisoned. A lad of 16 years was mounted on the horse and, after a black flag had been placed in his hands, the great crowd moved in procession around the market place, at the head being three young girls, who were dressed in red trousers and black jackets, who shouted "Ali Houssem! Ali Houssem!" to which the throng replied with loud prayers, lamentations and self-flagellation.

After a while the procession broke up and the crowd went home and, gathering a supply of provisions, such as bread, mutton, butter, eggs, etc., took it down to the riverside and spent the remainder of the day there feasting, weeping, wailing and pounding their breasts with their clenched fists. Their one aim was to propitiate their deity and thus escape cholera, and it never occurred to them that they were actually inviting the epidemic by feasting in this mad fashion.

Rev. John Clarence Lee, the new president of Lombard university, Galesburg, Ill., comes of a clever family. His father, Rev. J. B. Stebbins Lee, D. D., is a professor in St. Lawrence university, New York. Of his two brothers, Lewis A. Lee is professor of biology at Bowdoin, and Frederick S. Lee is a professor in Columbia college. Two of his sisters are well known teachers, one in Knox college, Ill., and the other in New York State Normal school. President Lee has been connected with Lombard for many years.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

CAPITAL HAS ITS VAST USES.

Baron Alphonse Rothschild's Views on the Relations of Wealth and Labor.

Paris, Sept. 16.—The Figaro publishes to-day an interview with Baron Alfonse Rothschild on the so-called social and economic crisis of the present day. Baron Rothschild preluded his remarks with the declaration that there was neither a social nor an economic crisis, as alarmists in all countries were pretending. There had been momentary crises, resulting in unfortunate failures, as, for instance, the collapse of the Barings, but the general situation in Europe had remained unchanged by them. The business world at present was far from a bad condition.

"I do not believe in the so-called labor movement," Baron Rothschild continued. "I am confident that the workingmen, generally speaking, are satisfied with their condition, and have neither cause nor desire to complain. They are, I am convinced, indifferent to socialism. To be sure, some agitators make plenty of noise, but that amounts to nothing; they do not influence the honest and reasonable workingmen.

"In considering the so-called labor movement it is necessary, however, to distinguish sharply good from bad workmen. Only the idle, good-for-nothings desire the eight-hour day. Serious men, fathers of families, work as long as they think necessary for their own and their children's needs. There is much loose talk nowadays about the danger of so much capital in the hands of a few men. This is all rubbish. Some men are richer; others poorer; tomorrow this is all changed by vicissitudes which nobody can control. It is the money which circulates that fructifies, and money circulates with the same risk to all. It is money which one lends in confidence for so-called good things which does not always turn out to be good. All that applies to the great as well as the small ventures.

"Frighten and threaten capital and it vanishes. Capital is like water. Grasp it violently and it slips through your fingers; treat it gently, dig a canal in which to lead it, and it runs wherever you will. Capital is a country's fortune. It represents the energy, intelligence, thrift and labor of the people. Capital is labor. Apart from unhappy expectations, which seem to be unavoidable, each shares in the people's capital according to his intelligence, energy and work accomplished. If a workman be discontented with his share he may strike.

"It is unjust to compare a man with capital and intelligence, organizing faculties, invention and knowledge with any gross, brutal workman, who applies to his work only the unintelligent work of his hands."

In conclusion Baron Rothschild said that the war on capital was brutal and baneful, and that anti-semitism was brutal and irrational. The Figaro reporter who had the interview says that Chateau Dinard, where he was received was hired for the season by Baron Rothschild for 8,000 francs. The reporter added that the baron smoked bad cigars while talking to him.

An uncommonly interesting and valuable material, familiar to the florists, though little known to others, is "raphia," a fibre made from the inner bark of a Japanese tree, and used in long shreds for tying delicate plants. It comes in long plaits like horsehair, is a light brownish yellow in color, and, when twisted, makes a light strong twine. Large quantities of raphia are imported for the use of gardeners and florists. It is found cheaper than manufactured twine, and, by reason of its pliancy and softness, is more suitable to the use to which it is put.

BY EXPRESS.

Lower Broadway at 1p. m. What a Babel of crashing whes, hurrring humanity and conglomerate noises it was! Minnie Harlan sat in a express office, under the flare of gaslihts, surrounded by boxes and wondered whether people ever went crazed in this prpetual din and tumult. She had sat here two hours and was very, very tired.

"Poor little thing," thought the dark-haired young clerk nearest her, who inhabited a sort of wire cage under a circle of gaslights. And then ook up his pen, and plunged into a perfect Atlantic Ocean of accounts.

"Mr. Evans!"

The dark-haired clerk emerged from his cage with his pen behind ear, in obedience to the beckoning finger of his superior.

"I have noticed that young woman sitting here for some time—how came she here?"

"Expressed on, sir, from Millington, Iowa—arrived this afternoon."

"Who for?"

"Consigned to Walter Iarrington, Esqaire."

"And why hasn't she ben called for?"

"I sent up to Mr. Harrington's address to notify him some time ago; I expect an answer every moment."

Some three quarters of an hour afterwards, Frank Evans came up to the pale girl's side.

"Miss Harlan, we hav sent to Mr. Harrington's residence—"

Minnie looked up with a feverish red upon her cheek, and her hands clasped tightly on the handle of ne faded carpetbag.

"—And we regret to inform you that he sailed for Europe at 12o'clock to-day."

A sudden blue came ove Minnie's eyes.

"Shall I send to any other of your friends?"

"I have no friends."

"Perhaps I can have your things sent to some quiet family hotel?"

Minnie opened her litte leather purse and showed him two ten cent pieces, with a smile that was almost a tear.

So young, so beautiful, and so desolate! Frank Evans had been a New Yorker all his life, but he had never met with an exactly parallel case.

"But what are you going to do?"

"I don't know, sir."

"Miss Harlan," said Frank, quietly, "my home is a very poor one, but I am sure my mother will receive you under her roof for a day or two, if you can trust me."

"Trust you?" Minnie looked at him through violet eyes obscured in tears. "Oh, sir, I should be so thankful!"

"How late you are, Frank!—"

Frank interrupted his bustling, cherry-cheeked little mother, as she stood on tip-toe to take off his otter wrappings.

"Hush, mother! there is a young lady down stairs."

"A young lady, Frank?"

"Yes, mother; expressed on from Iowa to old Harrington, the rum merchant. He sailed for Europe this morning and she is left entirely alone. I knew you wouldn't refuse her a corner here until she could find something to do."

The days and weeks passed on, and still Minnie Harlan remained an inmate of Mrs. Evan's humble lwelling.

"Now, Minnie, you are not in earnest about leaving us to-morrow?" she said one day.

"I must, dear Mrs. Evans. Only think—I have been here two months, and the situation of governess is very advantageous."

"Very well. I shall tell Frank how obstinate you are."

"Dearest Mrs. Evans, please don't! Please keep my secret."

"What secret is it that is to be so religiously kept?" asked Mr. Frank Evans, coolly walking into the midst of the discussion, with his dark hair tossed about by the wind and his hazel-brown eyes sparkling archly.

"Secret!" repeated Mrs. Evans, energetically wiping her spectacle glasses. "Why, Marian is determined to leave us to-morrow."

Minnie smiled sadly, but her hand felt very cold and passive in Frank's warm grasp.

"You'll stay, Minnie?"

She shook her head determinedly.

"Then you must be made to stay," said Frank. "I've missed something of great value lately, and I hereby arrest you on suspicion of the theft!"

"Missed something?" Minnie rose, turning red and white. "Oh, Frank, you never can suspect me?"

"But I do suspect you. In fact, I am quite sure that the article is in your possession."

"The article!"

"My heart, Miss Minnie! Now, look here; I know I am very young and very poor, but I love you, and I will be a good and true husband to you. Stay, and be my little wife!"

So Minnie Harlan, instead of going out as a governess, according to the program, married the dark-haired young clerk in Ellison's Express Office.

They were very quietly married, early in the morning, and Frank went calmly about his business in the wire cage.

"Evans!"

"Yes, sir."

Frank, with his pen behind his ears as of yore, quietly obeyed the behest of the gray-headed official.

"Do you remember the young woman who was expressed on from Millington, Iowa, two months since?"

"Yes, sir—I remember her."

A tall, silver-haired gentleman here interposed with quick eagerness:

"Where is she? I am her u

STATES & THOMAN, ARCHITECTS, Room 13, Adams Block, corner Adams and St. Clair streets. Plans and specifications and details furnished on short notice. June-29-to-jan-15-'93

Dr. Pellegrini, who recently resigned the presidency of the Argentine republic, and then withdrew the resignation a day or two later, is a relative of the British publicist, John Bright. The former gentleman's grandmother was a favorite sister of the latter one's father.

TRIED SUICIDE FOR LOVE.

And for Love of One of Her Sex at That.

Gentlemen have before now attempted to put an end to a miserable existence because ladies whom they desired to wed had the wretchedly bad taste to marry somebody else, and ladies have been known to return the compliment in the case of gentlemen. But for one lady to contemplate suicide because another female is engaged to be married, to a total stranger is something of a new departure. The strange case of Leocadie Rhone, a young Belgian woman, and Miss Parkinson, which came before Sir John Bridge at Bow street police court, seems to show that there is still some romance left in the world. Here are two maidens who vowed solemnly to each other that if either were to become engaged the other would at once kill herself. The arrangement appears a trifle one-sided and, moreover, is faulty because the punishment falls on the innocent party.

The remarkable point about it is that the Belgian damsel—who at the age of 20 ought to have got rid of much of the sentimentality of youth—really took the vow seriously, and on hearing of Miss Parkinson's engagement, journeyed in hot haste from Brussels with a loaded revolver, in order to carry out the fell design on her own life. Why she troubled to come over to England at all is not apparent. A few words of kindly advice from the magistrate induced the too excitable Belgian to return to her native shores, and also to promise not to do herself any harm. Evidently her whole grievance was that, in accordance with her vow, she had neglected several good offers of marriage. She had now better imitate her English friend and neglect them no longer. She will find that there is a good deal of romance to be got out of even so commonplace an expedient as matrimony.—London Telegraph.

THE BELT REMEDY.

Speaking of cholera, I recently had a conversation with several naval surgeons who had spent considerable time in Asiatic ports when cholera was prevalent. On several occasions cholera had broken out in the ships, but the prompt treatment and extra sanitary precautions readily ended it. The cases were generally traced to overripe fruit, and strict quarantine measures were the best preventative. Surgeon N. McP. Ferebee, who spent several years in China during an epidemic of cholera, claims that the wide flannel belts worn by the "blue-jackets" on the China station are an excellent preventative and protection against the disorders that lead to cholera. The wearing of these wide flannel bands about the waist is regarded by many as a "sailor superstition," but at least one good effect is seen here. The excellent hygienic precautions taken on our men-of-war have kept the crews in good health in ports where epidemics were raging in all countries, from fever in Rio Janiero to cholera in Hong Kong, and all this is surely a great recommendation for the naval surgeons.—Washington Star.

MARS AND JUPITER.

Now that Mars is receding from us Jupiter will claim and retain for the next two months or more the leading position in our evening sky. Already it is quite as bright as Mars, and it has the further advantage of being to the north of the equator, and therefore assuming a considerable elevation in the heaven, whereas Mars is further south than the sun at Christmas and therefore just skirts the horizon. But the interest in Jupiter must be of a very different kind from the interest in Mars. There may be room for the inquiry as to Mars. Are there inhabitants in it, and are they capable of making or of receiving signals from the earth? But in Jupiter the first problem is, Where is the body of the planet? We see a dense mass of vapor, which hides from us the giant planet which is yet in its early youthful undeveloped stage, and probably a few millions of years must pass before it is as the earth is now and a few millions more before it is as advanced in its life history as Mars. But still shrouded, as the real Jupiter is, from our gaze, the fact that at the approaching opposition he is to the north of the equator for the first time for several years will at once make him a conspicuous object in the heavens, and give the largest telescopes in the northern hemisphere a chance to observe him more minutely than has been possible for a long time.—Daily Graphic.

HEALTH IN OLD AGE.

Edward Collinson, Queens, N. Y., says: "I commenced using Brandreth's Pills over fifty-five years ago. I first bought them in London, and have continued using them since I came to this country in 1836. I am now over 75 years old, hale and hearty, and attribute my wonderful health to the persistent use of Brandreth's Pills. Occasionally I have a mild cold or severe attack of rheumatism, indigestion or biliousness, but four or five doses of Brandreth's Pills always cure me. Whenever my children have been sick with scarlet fever, measles, chill stomach, disordered digestion or costiveness, a few doses of Brandreth's Pills restored their health at once."

AT SARATOGA.

He was all ready to go. His satchel, umbrella and canes were waiting on the veranda of a big Saratoga hotel. He stepped inside to the clerk's desk, handed over a dime and asked for a postage stamp. The clerk passed it out, and with it 8 cents in change.

"How's this?" inquired the guest in surprise. "Some mistake."

"You gave me a dime."

"I know it."

"Then what's the matter?"

"You've only taken out 2 cents for the stamp."

"Hey?"

"I say there's a mistake, young man. You charged me $17 for three days' board, and I gave the head waiter $2 and the waiter who served me a dollar or so more. Every bell boy who has waved a wisp broom my way gathered in about 10 cents a wave, and I paid 40 cents to be shaved, and 7 cents for a newspaper. I've had a real nice quiet time in your town, and, just as I am going home with sweet memories of this quiet, frugal spot, you dispel the whole thing by charging only two cents for a postage stamp. I can't stand it. Say it was a mistake, old fellow; say you had so many things to think of you made a slip, and take a dime for this stamp. It's worth it, my boy. By-by," and the light-hearted guest threw a dime on the counter, and was gone. A shade of surprise crossed the clerk's face. He picked up the dime and dropped it in the change drawer.

"Front," he said, "pitcher of ice water to No. 970."—New York Tribune.

A QUESTION OF SHADE.

The woman was noticeable by reason of her inglorious expression of countenance. The corners of her finely chiseled mouth drooped in a manner suggestive of sobs, and the moisture visible in her big blue eyes confessed a flood of tears behind with difficulty repressed.

"It's just too bad."

She was regarding in indecision an array of costly draperies and mural hangings of variegated shade.

"I don't see how I am going to furnish that room."

She was petulant. An attendant approached her deferentially.

"Cannot I assist you, madam?" he softly inquired.

She shook her head hopelessly.

"I don't believe you can."

A deep sigh rose from her heart, fluttered for a moment in her bosom and escaped.

"May I sugest?" the attendant persisted.

She ventured no reply.

"What is the difficulty?"

She stared at the man with a hard, callous look in her eye.

"Difficulty. Only—"

Gathering her wraps about her she rose to leave.

"That I am called upon to match two opposite tints in one room."

"May I ask—"

The attendant had followed her to the door.

"What are the shades?"

Impatiently he paused.

"My husband's whiskers are black, while Fido's cat is cream leading into white. Perhaps you can harmonize those. Umo."

With a haughty sneer she swept from the place.—Detroit Tribune.

DEEP SEA BLUEFISHING.

Good Ones Caught at the Bottom of 100 Feet.

Bluefishing at a depth of 200 feet is not "according to Hyle," but it is one way of getting the fish when they will not bite in the ordinary way. Three sloops were observed lying quietly off Pigeon Reef, Plum Island, the other day, dropping lines to the bottom. The squids weighed three-fourths of a pound and were dropped in the same manner as for bass fishing. Then the fishermen hauled up their lines as fast as they could to imitate the motion of trolling. The fish were striking well when not a sign of bluefish was visible at the surface anywhere. At times a line was cast 20 times without a strike, but they made a good catch on the average.

The fishermen said they got the idea of deep fishing for blues from the fact that occasionally a blue is hooked while fishing in deep water in the keip for bass. The fish were of the same size as those taken in the old-fashioned way.

A party of 40 from East Hartford will go on the steamboat to Saybrook Friday, and will take the Mabel there for Montauk Point to lure the bass from the briny deep. Other parties from Middletown and Cromwell are booked for the Mabel early in the week. The blues have not been running very well for a while past, but their ways are past understanding and some more good fishing may yet be found.—Hartford Courant.

THE SHOLIMARM'S PRAYER.

A schoolmistress in Australia has been recently suspended by the minister for education at Victoria for impropriety of conduct in praying for the death of her husband. As the authorities are hardly likely to have interfered with her private devotions, we can only suppose that the prayer in question was one in which the public had been invited to join. Possibly the good lady was of Mr. Barrie's opinion, that there are some people who are "better dead." Let us hope that in that case she may be content with her present procedure and not put into practice the old saying that "Heaven helps those who help themselves."—London Globe.

THE ALTERNATIVE.

It is a little North Side boy whose father the other day asked what he did that afternoon when he went to call upon his grandmother. "Oh, nothing much," the child answered. "Just look at the picture Bible." "Well, what did you see?" "I saw Adam and Eve in the garden of Eden, having a good time with their animals." "What did they do in the garden?" "They ate an apple." "And what happened?" "They got chased out." "Who chased them?" "God and some angels." "And what did they do then?" "Oh, then I guess they boarded." The special North Side boy boards.—Chicago Post.
